NORTH INDIANA CENTER OF TERRIFIC WINDSTORM

FORT WAYNE SUFFERS UNDER GALE'S BLAST

Buildings Unroofed, Trees Felled and Heavy Damage Inflicted by Wind of Sixty-Mile Velocity.

TROLLEY AND WIRE SERVICE CRIPPLED

Following one of the most disastrous and terrific windstorms in years in this section of the country, during which a velocity of sixty miles an hour was reached at intervals between 7:15 and 8 o'clock this morning, communication between Fort Wayne and outside points is almost completely cut off, and the city itself was practically isolated for hours.

The storm appears to have been central over northern Indiana, and it gathered with tremendous rapidity. Outside the city the damage inflicted to the power lines of the interurban systems tied them up almost completely, and no interurban cars were running during the early half of the day.

Many Narrow Escapes.

No fatalities have been reported, although a number of minor accidents occurred and numerous narrow escapes were experieced at times when the wind reached its greatest velocity. The storm has caused considerable damage in Fort Wayne and the surrounding territory, and business has been seriously impaired in the city.

Starting shortly before 7 o'clock and continuing until almost 9 the wind maintained a velocity of between forty-five and sixty miles an hour. Roofs were blown from buildings, signs were torn from their fastenings and hurled with great force into the street, endangering the lives of pedestrians. Telephone and telegraph wires became crossed, poles were blown from their anchors, and at noon the Home Telephone and Telegraph company reported more than 500 telephones out of service in the city. It is impossible to estimate the damage done along the rural lines, but communication was almost impossible. Smokestacks were blown down, lighting wires were broken, and dozens of trees in the city were felled.

Until the wreckage has been cleared away it will be impossible to give the total amount of damage done here. It is certain, however, that the total will reach several thousands of dollars in Fort Wayne.

Bass Plant Damaged.

Shortly after 7 o'clock when the wind had reached almost sixty miles an hour a large portion of one of the smokestacks at the Bass Foundry and Machine shops was blown down. As it fell it carried with it the network of wires tor the transmission of electricity to operate the machinery in the plant. The lights were put out and the power plant rendered unserviceable. Covering the central portion of the power house was a large glass ventilating and lighting dome, and this was completely demolished. Felix Paul, an Italian laborer in the foundry yards at the works, suffered a painful gash extending across his right foot when he was struck by a piece of slate roof. Some of the slate from one of the buildings was carried more than a block away.

Girls in a Panic.

Girls employed at the Economy glove factory, on Wallace street, were panic-stricken when a large portion of the roof at the rear of the storage house of the Olds Coal company was lifted entirely from the structure and hurled with terrific force into Murray street. With a deafening roar the roof covering the entire rear portion of the three story building was torn from its fastenings and several persons inthe street had narrow escapes from injury.

Trees Across Street.

Several large maple trees were blown down on Brackenridge street and fell directly across that thoroughfare, making traffic impossible. Not until late this afternoon had the trees been cleared away, allowing vehicles to pass. City Forester Getz declares that the damage here was due to the fact that the roots of the trees had been cut and the anchor wires loosened while new sidewalks were being placed along the street. The earth was soft on acount of the rain and warm weather and the trees were without support.

On South Calhoun street a tree just south of Williams street fell into the street and a portion of it broke the glass from a number of windows in a residence. During the entire day reports were received telling of trees that had been blown down during the storm.

Communication Impossible.

Not until noon today was the West-

GALE BRINGS DEATH TO TWO

Fatalities at Frankfort and Lafayette as Storm Sweeps Indiana.

HEAVY DAMAGE OVER THE STATE

Total Loss is Likely to Mount Up to Many Millions.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 21.—According to reports which have reached the city over the few lines of communication with the outside world, at least two lives were lost in the storm today. Many others were injured, and several fatalities will doubtless be added to the list as further particulars are reported. Damage to property will mount up into the millions, is the belief of those who report the property losses from their communities.

Omar A. Rice, a cab driver of Frankfort, was instantly killed when the roof of a building was dashed into the street. The city suffered greatly as a result of the storm, but no further deaths are reported from there.

Killed at Lafayette.

A fatality occurred at Lafayette when a sign was blown down and struck Henry Wallers. He was walking along one of the business streets.

At Terre Haute, a young girl was struck by a brick which fell on her while she was asleep in bed. The house was partially wrecked by the wind.

A smokestack, blown down by the high wind, struck an employe of the Western Drop Forge Co. at Magion, fatally injuring him.

Severe at Indianapolis.

In Indianapolis the storm was very severe. A large electric sign which, when part of the building was blown out, fell with a quantity of brick and struck Patrolman Robenocitz and a working man. Both are believed to be dying at the hospital to which they were hurried directly following the accident.

Bettie Hill, an Indianapolis colored girl, was struck by a falling sign and her skull was fractured. She is dying.

Report Great Damage.

From various portions of the state come reports of great damage to churches and school buildings. One of the buildings of the University of Indiana at Bloomington was damaged to the extent of several thousands of dollars. The Grant county court house at Marion was partially destroyed. The roof was blown off. The Methodist church at Harmony, Indiana, was practically demolished.

Wire service was deranged throughout the state, but all towns with which communication has been established report heavy damage.

LAKES ARE SWEPT BY SEVERE GALE

Life-Savers Attempt Rescue of Men in Peril on Lake Erie.

CAUGHT IN STORM

Sandusky, O., March 21.—Two boats are missing, one is on the rocks, and another is in great distress in the sixty-mile gale sweeping Sandusky today.

It is feared that six or more men have been drowned as nothing can be learned of their whereabouts since putting out in the lake, and life-savers have gone to the rescue of six others who are reported to be in peril.

DASHED ON SHORE.

Four Members of Fishing Tug Crew Are Rescued.

Michigan City, Ind., March 21.—The fishing tug Elsie B. was caught in the storm on Lake Michigan early today and dashed on the shore at Grand Beach, seven miles from this city. Four men composing the crew were rescued.

DENIES AUSTRIAN DEMANDS.

Montenegro's Reply is Conciliatory, But Firm in Tone.

London, March 21.—King Nicholas, of Montenegro, today refused to recognize the demands of Austria in connection with the bombardment of Sutari, although the note was conciliatory in tone. He said he ordered the bombardment of the forts only and that the city was not to be shelled.

EIGHT BURIED IN RUINS OF STACK

Storm Causes Disaster at County Asylum Near Tiffin, Ohio.

RESCUE IS PERILOUS

Tiffin, O., March 21.—William Wick was killed and eight others are believed to be buried under the ruins of a smokestack at the county infirmary which was wrecked today by the high winds. Tottering walls make the work of rescue perilous.

FIVE KILLED; MANY INJURED.

Memphis, Tenn., March 21.—Five persons were killed and many fatally injured by the storm last night at Poplar Bluff, Mo., according to reports of the crew of a St. Louis and San Francisco train which arrived here today. One death and twenty-five persons seriously injured are reported from Hoxie. Wire communication is cut off.

CHICAGO NEAR ISOLATED.

Windstorm Most Severe Noted There in Many Years.

Chicago, March 21.—Two telegraph wires alone connected Chicago with the outside world for several hours today. Telegraphic messages could neither be sent or received from Chicago following the terrific windstorm which swept the city at a velocity of sixty miles an hour. The only relief was an underground telephone cable reaching to Milwaukee.

Not in years has Chicago suffered such a windstorm. The total extent of the damage is gigantic. The storm came suddenly this morning about 6 o'clock, and for more than an hour the disastrous gale swept across the city and cut over Lake Michigan.

NO REPORTS MADE PUBLIC.

Public Health Service Silent on Friedmann Treatment.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—Contrary to reports, the public health service did not make public today any of the reports on observations on tuberculosis patients which are under treatment by Dr. Friedmann.

THREE PLAYERS IN FOLD.

Roy Keener, Mary Lafferty and Tommy Adkins have sent in their signed contracts to Owner Claude B. Varnell and they have been forwarded to President Louis Heilbroner. The men will be placed on the eligible list and ordered to report with the other players.

TOWN IS WIPED OUT BY TORNADO

Fifteen Reported Dead and Many Hurt at Lower Peachtree, Ala.

FEW HOUSES STAND

Mobile, Ala., March 21.—The town of Lower Peachtree, on the Alabama river, about thirty miles from Pinehill, was practically wiped out by a tornado, which struck the town late last night, according to reports from Pinehill. The mayor of Pinehill was asked to send doctors and nurses to the scene.

Advices are to the effect that fifteen persons were killed, among them being the family of L. D. Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. James Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. G. E. Williamson and son. Mr. Williamson was seriously but not fatally injured. The tornado passed directly through the town and few houses escaped destruction.

MEDICAL MEN TO MEET IN THE CITY

Twelfth District Medical Society to Elect New Officers

AND HOLD A CLINIC

The semi-annual meeting of the Twelfth District Medical society will be held in Fort Wayne Wednesday, April 9. The principal number for the morning's program will be a clinic at St. Joseph's hospital under the direction of Dr. Kimberlin, of Indianapolis, president of the Indiana State Medical association.

The literary program will begin at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and at this time officers for the coming year will be elected. Retiring officials will also submit reports. Dr. A. R. Craig, secretary of the A. M. A., will be one of the speakers and will discuss the subject of "organization." Physicians who have had interesting cases since the last meeting have been invited to report them and many interesting features are expected.

The Allen County Medical society will hold its regular meeting Tuesday evening at the Lutheran hospital. The session will be in charge of Dr. H. A. Duemling, Dr. Budd Van Sweringen and Dr. A. L. Schneider. The meeting will be clinical and a large and excellent assortment of X-ray plates will be exhibited.

BOHM ESCAPES WITHOUT HURT

Driver of Bursley Auto Truck Has Some Thrilling Moments.

STREET CAR HIT MACHINE A BLOW.

Lucky Accident at Ewing and Main Streets at Noon Today.

If T. E. Bohm had not been so busy looking over the big auto truck he was driving for G. E. Bursley & Co. today and fixing up his report for his employers he might have told a thrilling story of a collision with a street car at Ewing and Main streets in which the truck was lifted off the ground and turned over so quickly that he hadn't time to jump from his seat.

There were a number of spectators who thought a jack would have to be brought into service to rescue the driver from under the truck, but as soon as the machine settled he crawled out and hadn't a bruise to show for his experience.

The accident occurred about noon and when it was all over the auto was lying on its side on the sidewalk at the southwest corner and the whole front of the car was battered up but the motorman was not hurt.

Turned in Front of Car.

The street car that figured in the collision was one of the Belt Line variety and was being piloted by J. E. Hooper and I. Donovan was the conductor in charge.

The auto was traveling east on Main and the car was going in the same direction. At the corner Bohm whirled his auto in front of the car and was struck with such force that the ponderous machine was carried the full width of Ewing street, thrown against the curb ad overturned.

The force of the impact is shown by the fact that as the auto lay on its side the front end was pointed in exactly the opposition direction to that in which it was going at the time it was struck.

Panic in the Car.

A panic on the car followed the collision and the women screamed and half of the occupants made a break for the

NEW KING TAKES OATH OF OFFICE

Great Throngs Cheer Constantine in Grecian Capital.

GOES TO SALONIKI

Athens, Greece, March 21.—King Constantine, of Greece, took the oath of office as the successor of the slain King George in the chamber of deputies today in the presence of the highest state officials.

Great crowds cheered the king on the way to the chambers.

King Constantine will start tonight for Saloniki, where his father met death at the hands of an assassin a few days ago.

In a Dark Hallway

R. G. SCHULZE, in charge of the foreign sales department of S. F. Bowser & Co., tells of many an interesting experience during the years he was a resident of Denison, Texas. Mr. Schulze's parents made the trip to Texas by wagon through Indian territory, and Mr. Schulze, then a very small lad, had the distinction of being the first child in the town, which was made up entirely of northerners.

"I remember a scary experience I had one night," said Mr. Schulze. "I was employed in a railroad office at the time, the quarters being located on the third floor of a four-story building. The fourth floor was devoted to lodge purposes, several societies having their quarters there. As you enter the lower hallway, you look straight up three flights of stairs. There is a small landing on each floor. Well, on this night, about 9 o'clock, I entered the lower hallway and was climbing the second flight of dark stairs leading to the railroad offices, when I heard a strange, rattling, metallic sound and, looking up the next flight of stairs, I saw, coming toward me, two green eyes shining out of the darkness. It was too late to retreat, so I made a dash for the office door and got inside, where I found three of the other fellows, armed with sticks of wood and other fierce-looking weapons. We did not want to go out into the hallway again, as we didn't have the slightest idea what the thing was, though we knew it was an animal of some sort. So we telephoned to the nightwatchman, who came right over. He entered the lower door with a loud noise, but by that time the strange intruder had reached the final stairway and the watchman, with one look at it, ran yelling out onto the street.

"Some Scared."

"And what do you suppose it was? A pet 'coon. We found that it had wandered into the town from some distant place, had climbed a tree and entered the fourth story of the building, had found an abandoned gas meter, made a nest in it and had there taken upon herself the duties of raising a family of little 'coons. She was as tame as a little kitten. We advertised thoroughly the finding of the animal but no owner ever claimed her. When we found her she had a small chain attached to a collar about her neck. She and her offspring were great pets in the little town for a long time. But at our first introduction I was surely 'some scared.'" ern Union Telegraph company able to get into communication with any of the larger cities and messages were received from and sent to only some of the small towns in Northern Indiana. Until noon the Postal Telegraph company had only one wire working and that was to Cleveland. The city was practically cut off from the outside world. The Associated Press wires into Fort Wayne were also rendered serviceless, and it was almost impossible to get into communication with Indianapolis either by telegraph or telephone.

Cathedral Steeple Damaged.

Early morning worshippers who attended services at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception on South Calhoun street, were not allowed to enter the church by the main entrance, on account of the damage done to the large spire on the south portion of the building. During the severity of the storm, the stucco work and decorative designs at the base of the spire became loose and several times appeared to be dropping to the ground near the entrance. Ropes were placed across the gates in front of the church, and those who desired to attend the special Good Friday services went into the structure by a rear entrance. The sight of the threatening decorations attracted a large crowd of spectators during the day.

No Interurban Cars.

Traffic on interurban lines running into Fort Wayne, except on the local division of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana, was completely stopped during the day. Some of the lines operated the first cars into the city, but at 7 o'clock the power was shut off on the Toledo and Chicago, the Ohio Electric and the Fort Wayne and Springfield lines. Not a single car was able to run over those lines, and the nearest car to Fort Wayne on the Ohio Electric was stalled at Monroeville.

A car heavily loaded with passengers for Garrett and Kendallville stopped just at the edge of the city. The passengers walked back to the city car lines and twenty of them went to their destinations on the G. R. & I. train No. 7.

Officials of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana say they are able to run cars over their lines as far south as Bluffton and as far west as Peru, but when they get to the places where power from the Indiana Union Traction company is used, they are compelled to stop.

Hundreds of people who contemplated traveling on interurban lines out of the city are stranded and compelled to remain here. Not in years has interurban traffic been so impaired, and it is stated that no definite information can be secured as to the probable time the damage will be repaired to such an extent that operations may be resumed.

Injured as Plaster Falls.

Mrs. Harry Bauls, of West DeWald street, was painfully, but not seriously injured by falling plaster in her home when the chimney toppled over upon the roof and then fell to the ground.

For half an hour or more travel on the streets was dangerous, and scores of narrow escapes from injury by falling trees, crashing glass and other debris driven by the gale are reported. Again and again pedestrians, retaining their feet with difficulty against the high wind, were all but caught by limbs of trees, signs and portions of chimneys carried down by the wind while the gale was at its height.

Additional Damage.

Scores of reports concerning storm damage have been received during the day. Some of them are as follows:

Windows broken in the Fort Wayne Drug company building, corner of Harrison and Wayne streets, by slate from the roof of the Jewish synagogue across the street.

Plate glass window shattered at the United Cigar store, corner of Calhoun and Berry streets.

Plate glass in door on west side of Anthony hotel broken by portions of wood blown from the street.

Large twenty foot sign owned by Colonial Billiard hall, on Main street, blown from top of the Swinney building. The sign crashed into Main street, directly in front of several people who were just leaving the Maryland lunch room.

More than one hundred electric light globes on the ornamental poles along the business streets were broken and numerous pedestrians were struck by the flying glass.

A smoke stack on the building at 714 Harrison street was blown over and was kept from falling into the street by anchor wires.

A portion of the roof of the Krudop Coal company was blown off and fell into the street.

A large section of the roof of the Hanna-Brackenridge company's building was torn loose.

Plate glass window in the Miller drug store, corner of Cottage and South Wayne avenues, was shattered.

A chimney was blown from the building located at the northwest corner of Butler and Calhoun streets and occupied by a barber shop.

Wabash Slightly Damaged.

Power furnished by the traction company to the Wabash shops was shut off on account of the storm, and employes were sent home at 8 o'clock. The power was impaired only a few hours, however, but the employes were not on hand to go to work today. The wind carried away two ventilating cupolas and a portion of the west roof of the Wabash round house, but the damage is not very great.

The wind also raised a portion of the roof of building No. 10 at the Fort Wayne Electric works. The roof was anchored by the employes before further damage was done. A few window lights in the foundry building, on Wall street, went with a crash that was heard nearly a block away.

Court House Damaged.

The Allen county court house also suffered considerable damage from the wind. A large number of the tile used on the roof of the structure became loose, and although none of them fell to the street, precaution was taken to keep them in place. The entire force of employes at the county building was engaged in holding the outside skylights to keep them from breaking during the time the wind was at its height.

Hurled Across Street.

O. J. Willson, an employe at the Wabash shops, was picked up by the wind at 7:30 o'clock, while walking on Fairfield avenue, and hurled to the sidewalk with terrific force. He suffered a badly wrenched and bruised shoulder and his face and head were cut and painfully bruised. Dr. C. F. Knadt was summoned and he was removed to his home in a taxicab.

Hundreds of people in the business district battled with the early morning gale, and many were unable to stay on their feet while attempting to go around the street corners, especially in the neighborhood of the Shoaff building and the Anthony hotel.

One woman who was walking west along the north side of the Shoaff building was apparently getting along nicely until she reached Calhoun street. There she was unable to proceed farther and was forced across Berry street, unable to hold her own against the wind. She bumped into one of the ornamental light posts on the opposite side of the street. Wrapping her arms about it, she held on tightly until the gust had quieted sufficiently for her to go on her way.

The air was filled with hats, and occasionally humorous incidents were noted by spectators watching the hatless squads as they tried to gain control of the lost articles of clothing.

Suffered Fractured Arm.

A Papas, a foreigner employed as an engine wiper at the Pennsylvania shops, sustained a fractured arm and an injured ankle when struck by a portion of a ventilating cupola which was blown from the roof of the building. He also suffered a number of painful cuts and bruises about the head and face.

Storm Was Freakish.

The windstorm this morning was decidedly of the freakish variety. At 6:30 o'clock there was scarcely a breath of wind stirring in Fort Wayne. In less than a half hour the blast broke upon the city with frightening force, and in another half hour the wind was blowing at a velocity of sixty miles an hour. This is decidedly unusual for this part of the middle west.

Weather Forecaster W. S. Palmer states that it was one of the most sudden weather changes he had ever witnessed. From the peaceful calm of a spring morning sprang the wind with chilling swiftness. Men left their homes at 6:45 o'clock without overcoats, and before they reached their places of business, they were battling with one of the worst wind storms in years.

The force of the storm, however, lasted only about forty-five minutes. While the wind was rather strong during the latter part of the morning and this afternoon, its greatest speed was attained between 7:45 and 8 o'clock. It was during that time that the greatest damage was done.

Confined to Central Part.

The force of the wind was apparently confined to the central portion of the city, as most of the damage is reported from a point west of town near the Hanna-Brackenridge plant, along the railroad tracks and out toward the New Haven road. The storm seemed to follow the railroad, and most of the Pennsylvania shops, Wabash shops and other institutions along the tracks report damage. The storm came from the south and west and the first damage occurred at the Hanna-Brackenridge plant. Then trees were felled in the western part of town, and the next damage reports came from the Electric works on Broadway. Coming toward the central part of the city, a number of big trees were uprooted along Brackenridge street, then the roof was swept from the Olds Coal company. Later the smokestack was blown from the Bass works. The most severe damage was reported along this route.

A skylight blown from the residence of Miss Eckert, at Williams and Harrison streets, was carried across the yard and hurled through the side of the residence of E. H. Bookwalter.

Gaylord's Narrow Escape.

Sylvester Gaylord, a teamster, residing at 1725 Hanna street, barely escaped death this morning. As he was passing from his house to the barn, a piece of scantling 4x4 inches and four feet long, dropped in front of him and buried its end in the earth two or three inches. It is presumed that the piece came from the roof of the new boiler shop at the Bass works. Mr. Gaylord says that the piece passed so close to him that he plainly felt the rush of air it created in its passage.

Wire Troubles Everywhere.

All the railways experienced trouble with their telegraph and telephone lines. On the Nickel Plate the wires were down at various points between Claypool and New Haven, the worst condition being near the former place, where a roof was carried from a car and in its descent took down and broke the telegraph wires. The company sent out a special train with dispatchers, operators and linemen and by noon had established communication between the Fort Wayne office and some of the stations that had been cut out. With Claypool communication was effected through the Pennsylvania and other lines. Scarcely a train passed through this part of the country this morning without some of its cars losing thir roof or doors and to this fact was due the greater portion of the trouble.

Between Fort Wayne and Adams, a distance of four or five miles, ten of the Pennsylvania telegraph poles were prostrated. Not all of the wires were broken, however, and a very poor telegraph and telephone service was maintained. Linemen were sent out and were early at work making repairs and had a fairly good service by noon.

But One Line Working.

The Grand Rapids and Indiana company has seven telegraph and telephone lines along its road. This morning, for several hours, only one of these lines was working. That was what is known as the dispatchers' wire. At Hongland several of the poles were either broken down or pushed over so that the wires were badly crossed.

All of the Wabash wires east of Fort Wayne were down. Some of the poles were also broken and communication with points east was severed until this afternoon.

So far as could be learned, none of the poles on the Lake Shore or the Lake Erie and Western were down, but in both directions the wires worked badly, indicating that they had been crossed. However, the business of the road was carried on over them.

Switch Crew Has Thrill.

Some of the members of a Wabash switching crew had a thrilling escape during the worst of the storm this morning. They had taken the engine into the yards at the Bass works to get some cars and as they were pulling the string out upon the main track, the wind tore the roof from one of the cars in such manner that it was dragged and rolled along for a considerable distance, barely missing some of the members of the crew, who were at the side of the track.

Damage in the Country.

Communication with residents in the country in the vicinity of Fort Wayne was almost impossible during the day. Late this afternoon meager reports were received, telling of frightful damage by wind. Only a very few farmers ventured to the city, but they say the signs of devastation are to be seen everywhere in the rural districts.

A report received shortly after noon stated that a new house under course of construction a few miles west of the city on the Huntington road had been entirely demolished.

Houses and barns were unroofed, chimneys were blown down, telephone and telegraph wires were crossed and broken, and live stock suffered terribly from the blast.

Workmen Leave Buildings.

Contractors who have charge of the erection of a number of new buildings in the city called the workmen from their labors when the wind threatened to wreck the structure. Hundreds of carpenters and other laboring men were idle for several hours, and many did not return to work during the day. Several contractors, however, ordered their men to report at noon, at which time operations were resumed.

A large billboard located along the side of a building at the corner of Holman and Lafayette streets was blown from its fastenings, and when it swept into the street it carried with it a large portion of the weather boarding.

Buried in Debris; Leg Fractured.

While emptying ashes in the rear yard at her home at 8 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Edward Brockmeyer, 322 Dawson street, was seriously injured when a chimney on the summer kitchen was blown over and almost buried her in the debris. Her left leg was fractured just above the ankle, and her whole body is a mass of bruises. Mrs. Brockmeyer was fortunate to escape with her life as she received the full force of the falling bricks. Dr. Budd Van Sweringen was called and dressed her injuries.

Didn't Obey Ordinance.

An accident could possibly have been avoided by observance of the Fort Wayne traffic ordinance, which provides that vehicles shall be driven to a point beyond the center of the intersection and turned squarely when they are turned from right to left.

The tracks of the west wheels of the truck showed that when it was turned the wheels were exactly opposite the curb on the west side of the street. Hooper says he was ringing his bell as he approached the crossing, but the high wind probably confused Bohm.

Fool Killer Off Duty.

The fool killer was not on duty after the accident. In spite of the fact that the gasoline tank on the auto was burst and the oil was running freely over the ground a number of people who assembled to look the situation over insisted on lighting cigarettes, pipes and cigars and throwing burning matches about.

Patrolmen Lauer and Paul took charge and stopped the smoking within the danger zone and probably prevented the innocent bystander from paying the usual penalty.

THEY EXECUTED GONZALES.

Firing Squad Operated Under Notorious Fugitive Law.

El Paso, Tex., March 21.—Mexicans arriving at Juarez from the south today declared that they were a part of the firing squad which executed Abram Gonzales, governor of Chihuahua under the Madero government, two weeks ago. Gonzales was killed under the notorious "fugitive law," these Mexicans declare.

rear door, but the motorman stopped within a few feet and quiet was restored before any of the frightened passengers attempted to jump off.

The glass in the front vestibule was shattered and some of the woodwork was smashed, but the car was not disabled and was run to the barn. The motorman threw on his air break and shut off his power and this action probably prevented further damage.

The auto was righted in a short time and taken to a garage for repairs. The rear axle was badly sprung and the steering gear badly mussed up and some other minor damage was done, but not half as much as would naturally have been expected.

A GOLD MINE IN YOUR BACK YARD

Says Banker Who Cuts His Living Expenses With Spade and Hoe.

BABSON POINTS WAY

BY ROGER W. BABSON,
Boston Banker, Economic Investigator and Writer and Cost-of-Living Expert.

In my back yard there is a gold mine. From that mine, which some of my friends still persist in calling a garden, I have mined hundreds of dollars of real wealth—potatoes, beets, turnips, beans, corn; squashes, lettuce and tomatoes. With that source of wealth back of me I can snap my fingers at the cost of living, and so can every other man who will take a hoe in his hands and "go to it."

What difference does it make if lettuce is selling at ten cents or ten dollars if you can step out of your back door and pick all you can eat, and more, too? Moreover, the money, no longer needed for the table, means just so much extra to meet the prices of other good things, such as books, clothes and recreation, which don't grow in the garden. Here, then, is one solution of the cost of living problem and, to my mind, the only solution.

Thousands of people all over the country have already begun to think about next season's garden. It is none too soon to begin thinking. The more thought we put into that garden now the more vegetables we shall dig out of it next summer. I earnestly recommend that every reader of this paper who can possibly arrange to do so should also plan to keep a few hens. People have sometimes said to me when I have preached the doctrine of the back yard, "But, Mr. Babson, we haven't any back yard." Then I tell them to use the front yard.

Down in Maine there is a very attractive summer home which sets far back from the road, and the whole front yard, acres of it, is one field of corn, with the driveway running through the center; if we had more of such homes you would hear less about the struggle to make both ends meet. The average front yard is not only land wasted, but often time and labor wasted, too, in trying to give this land a smart and fashionable appearance; we need fewer lawn mowers and more wheel-barrows!

Now I realize that for some of my readers these suggestions are next to impossible; people who live in the heart of our cities and can't or won't move must continue to pay the penalty. The penalty is buying food, a large part of which you could just as well raise yourself, at very little cost, in greater abundance and often of much better quality and condition. These families are carrying an intolerable burden and I am astonished that they carry it so well as they do. It is my belief that if one-half the courage, careful management and sacrifice needed to support life in the city were put into a garden somewhere in the suburbs these families would find life a good deal easier and happier than they do now.

My real counsel is to those who easily could have a henhouse and a garden, but lack the gumption. The wife wonders what the neighbors will think, and the husband wonders whether he wouldn't rather sit on the porch and play with the dog's ears than set out tomato plants, and before he knows it the summer is gone and no garden. But the cost of living is still with us, and, roused by some unusually heavy expense the determination is made anew not to stand it any longer.

The only way, therefore, to really get started is to start now and get interested. Write for catalogs of seeds, garden implements, poultry paraphernalia; dig into these and make all your plans and do your figuring; talk with all the gardeners and poultrymen you can find; in other words, get warmed up on the subject.

You ask me—if that is the sure way to get wealthy and wise—why, then, are not more people following this plan? My answer is that more people are following it every year, and on this fact depends the ultimate prosperity of our nation. The fate of this country doesn't rest with congress—never fear that!—but with the millions of capable men and women who are able to support themselves by actually raising their own food on their own land with their own hands.

How to Have Red Lips

The girl with red lips and pink cheeks may be thankful, for both denote health—vigorous, forceful, magnetic health, and while it may be impossible for some to attain owing to morbid states or health, yet a vast majority of seemingly healthy young women and even are almost colorless because of a lack of red blood corpuscles. When the blood is improved and enriched with these red corpuscles, the weight increases and a beautiful tint appears on the cheeks, while the lips assume a healthy red color. Many physicians and beauty doctors prescribe thereguam hypo-hæmane tablets which are said to incredibly increase the red blood corpuscles after a course of treatment lasting several months. The nervous system and general health also improve rapidly. The best physicians and apothecary shops supply this tablet in sealed packages.

PARCEL POST INCREASE.

Assistant Postmaster William J. Hess states that the parcel post business for the month of March will doubtless be the heaviest of any month since the new system was inaugurated. The auto truck contracted for some time ago has been placed in service, collecting parcels, and it may soon be necessary to operate the truck each day.

RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT.

Universal Wheel Company of This City Elects New Officers.

L. Herrington, of Chicago, inventor of the auto wheel now being manufactured by the Universal Wheel company, of this city, has resigned as president of the company and will depart within a few days for France, where he will demonstrate his invention before a number of capitalists who have in mind the organization of a million dollar company in France to manufacture the new wheel.

At a meeting of stockholders, new officers were elected as follows: J. W. Wischart, president; L. H. Moore, vice president and treasurer; J. C. Thornburgh, secretary; H. P. Moses, assistant secretary; W. F. Davis, superintendent; E. G. Hoffman, attorney. Directors are: J. W. Wischart, L. H. Moore, J. C. Thornburgh, H. P. Moses, W. F. Davis, E. F. Davis, E. G. Hoffman, Edwin Irle and Dr. G. A. Leach.

Building operations on the manufacturing plant for the company to be erected in the rolling mill district, will not be started until later in the season. Officials of the company say the plant on Pearl street is now turning out twenty complete sets of wheels daily.

Wages and the Vice Problem

Regardless of the fact that there will probably never be entire agreement as to the extent to which low wage of the working girl contributes to delinquency, the investigations into the situation now being conducted in various parts of the country, are already showing results of a gratifying character. It may be that insufficient wages, long hours and hard work cannot justly be charged with so large a degree of responsibility for the shortcomings of those who fall as is claimed in some quarters, but one development of salutary character has been the bringing to employers of a new sense of responsibility that extends beyond the mere working hours for which he pays. Doubtless shortcoming in this respect in the past has been due not so much to indifference as to a failure to appreciate the proper relationship between employer and employe. One interesting development of the agitation is reported from Hammond, this state, where a dozen or more large employers of female labor purpose to unite in the erection of a home for working girls. It is planned to provide a living place for those "adrift" where they may be surrounded by wholesome influences, and where the living expenses shall be no more than they can afford to pay. One Fort Wayne institution has provided accommodations of this character for the past few years, and it is declared the experiment is eminently satisfactory. In seeking the same results on a larger scope, employers at Hammond may be performing a distinct service, not only to their employes, but to other manufacturing cities as well.

The fact that more than two thousand fourth-class postmasters have forwarded their resignations since the announcement that present incumbents would be required to pass competitive civil service examinations with others ambitious to succeed them seems to indicate that unnecessary alarm is abroad in the land. For the most part the resignations are from remote rural points where glory is almost the sole compensation and where the incumbents have been lying awake nights in the effort to devise a scheme to saddle the place off on somebody else. No patriot is as yet voluntarily letting go of any office that pays real money.

It is gratifying to note that the candidacy of Judge Samul M. Hench, of this city, for commissioner of pensions is being accorded an increasing favorable reception over the country generally, and that his prospects for success in landing the appointment are at least equal to those of any other of the numerous applicants. Judge Hench's services, both as a soldier and in politics, together with his fitness for the position, commend his candidacy to the most careful consideration of the administration.

H. E. Barnard, state inspector of weights and measures, has just issued copies of the amended Indiana weights and measures law and places emphasis on the provision which decrees that there must be no more selling ice "by the chunk"—that hereafter actual weight must be the basis on which the charge is made. It may be noted that Fort Wayne was some months ahead of the rest of Indiana on this proposition.

Fort Wayne's effort to secure the Indiana apple show next fall is evidently making some progress. The commission is now considering a proposal to arrange for two shows, one in the northern and the other in the central part of the state, in November instead of the customary one show at Indianapolis. If the new plan is adopted, either Fort Wayne or South Bend will be chosen as the place for the northern exhibit.

PRESS MUZZLING.

(Louisville Courier-Journal.)

Under Indiana's new press muzzling law about the worst any newspaper will be permitted to say of any politician is that he is a gentleman and a scholar.

In discussing the claims of candidates hereafter it will be necessary, it would seem, to refer to that gentry only in a manner somewhat similar to those articles of superlative adulation which appear in the rural weeklies after the candidate has paid his $5 or $10 in advance for a formal announcement of his candidacy. The average politician who has had an experience of that kind feels that the paper honored with his cash-in-advance announcement is under eternal obligations to him, and should be everlastingly at his service thereafter. This, despite the fact that he may not have paid a cent on subscription "since old Hec was a pup," and may have been the recipient of numerous past favors at the hands of the publisher.

Probably there is no member of the Indiana legislature who did not solicit newspaper support or assistance of some kind when he was making his race for nomination and election. Probably a majority of those who compose the legislature owe their election largely to the favor of the newspapers. The character of gratitude that is felt is evidenced by the passage of the press-muzzling law, an act which, if held valid, would very greatly embarrass the newspapers in their treatment of public questions, and would virtually forbid any criticism of any politician, however corrupt or unworthy he might be.

There are very few papers which make a living from politics. The average paper could not live six months if it depended solely upon politicians for its support. The tendency among present-day newspapers is to get away from partisan politics, and there is small wonder that such is the case. It is rather strange that so many of the men in politics are so utterly blind to the signs of the times.

PRESS COMMENT ON HAWTHORNE VERDICT.

"Abasement."

Buffalo Courier: "If imbued with the pride of race which would seem natural to one of Hawthorne's family and his achievements, the sad situation into which he has fallen must cause him unutterable abasement and self-reproach."

"Fraudulent Properties."

Chicago Record-Herald: "Nathaniel Hawthorne didn't find literature particularly remunerative, but he did find it too absorbing to take on any side lines, such as the exploiting of fraudulent properties."

"Sad Thing."

Philadelphia Inquirer: "It is a sad thing that two great and honored family names should be trailed in the dust by the sons of eminent fathers; that such sons should prostitute their talents to such base purposes; that prison doors should be yawning to receive them. It is the only thing to do—to send all such persons to jail, regardless of their prominence."

"Chagrin and Regret."

Boston Post: "The news of the acquittal of Mr. Quincy upon charges of conspiracy in the unlawful use of the mails is received here with general satisfaction. On the other hand, the conviction of Mr. Hawthorne is the cause of chagrin and regret."

"All Not Gold."

Cincinnati Enquirer: "Julian Hawthorne now full realizes the truth of the old saw, "All that glitters is not gold.'"

"Irretrievable Disgrace."

Philadelphia Ledger: "The result of the trial of Julian Hawthorne and his associates for conspiracy to defraud the public in promoting the Hawthorne Silver and Iron Mines, Limited, is to bring irretrievable disgrace upon a great and honored name."

A PERILOUS PRACTICE.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

The killing of a Philadelphia child while roller skating on the street calls attention again to the peril of this practice. With the return of pleasant weather there has been an outpouring of children on the streets and the roller skating pastime seems as popular as ever. The main arteries appear to be the favorite rinks, because smoother and offering longer stretches, but this is just where the danger is increased. Street car motormen, drivers and chauffeurs have hair-raising escapes from running down the youthful skaters, who, on their part, seem to be unconcerned at their peril. In some districts the skaters take to the sidewalks to the imperilment of pedestrians and themselves.

It is easy to sympathize with the youthful desire for sport, but a pastime that exposes them to such dangers should not be permitted for their own sake. On the less frequented side streets, perhaps, it might be permitted in reason. The danger and the consequent objection would be less, but measures should certainly be taken to prevent their invasion of main traveled thoroughfares, where the hazards of traffic are already sufficiently great without being added to by the difficulty of watching out for the irresponsible and erratic movements of youthful skaters.

A PROBLEM OF 2,300 YEARS AGO.

(Kansas City Star.)

The question as to the advisability of women working, which is agitating the "public mind" department in this year of grace, was a pressing one in Athens twenty-three hundred years ago. In the "Memorabilia" Xenophone tells of a conversation that Socrates had with Aristarchus on the subject.

Aristarchus was complaining that he had no income to support the sisters and nieces and cousins who had fled to his home for refuge because of the disturbed condition of the country.

Socrates made the obvious suggestion that the ladies go to work. Accordingly Aristarchus provided the material and they got busy spinning and weaving, with exceedingly happy results.

Only one source of discord developed. Life proved so easy under the circumstances that Aristarchus did nothing himself and the women complained that he was "the only person in the house that ate the bread of idleness."

Human nature and human problems continue much the same from age to age.

DRUNK ONLY IN HIS LEGS.

Driver of Taxicab Makes Unique Defense When Arrested.

London, March 21.—"Drunk in the legs only" was the defense of a taxicab driver in Brentford. He said that he was sitting on the coping fifty yards from his home laughing to himself at the fact that his legs had given way. The constable heard him and arrested him. The constable confirmed this statement, and the accused was allowed to go on payment of the doctor's fee.

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in February and March or Face May Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The February and March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles is the discovery of an eminent skin specialist, and is so uniformly successful that it is sold by Meyer Bros. Co. under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

Living fairies?

Yes, living, breathing, laughing, skipping fairies with queer little faces and bright, shining eyes. They're just beaming with happiness, too, because, at last they've actually alighted on this globe of ours. More of them come every day—to dance, to play and generally to do good deeds for great big, clumsy human folks right where everyone may see.

And the whole glorious trip to earth is planned just to make children glad!

These dear little elf-folk have agreed to visit the real world on two conditions—that they don't have to go into the bright sunlight, or where there is a great noise.

So a very tall man named Matthews, who knows lots about the tiny people, has promised them they shall only go where lights are shaded and quiet reigns.

Can anyone guess where that is?

Not in the nursery!

Not in the playhouse!

But—

A moving picture theater!

Why, of course!

The first of the fairy-tales that the live fairies will make real is "Snow-White," or "Snow Drop," as it is also called.

Do you know the story?

Well, the beautiful queen dies, leaving a beautiful little daughter to the king to watch over. Soon after he brings home a second wife. She is a jealous woman. Her great wish is to be the most beautiful woman living. So she goes to the mirror and asks, "Who is the most beautiful woman in all the world?"

ELSIE HERBERT AND SCENES FROM THE FIRST "MOVIE" FAIRY-TALE, "SNOW-WHITE."

It tells her that the king's little daughter is.

She is very angry then and decides at once to get this little girl out of the way. After thinking a long time she decides to send her to the woods. Snow White wanders all alone until evening when she spies a cottage, into which she goes to rest.

From a table spread for seven little persons she there takes food and then lies down in a tiny bed to sleep. Soon seven little dwarfs, the masters, come home and find her. They think her very lovely and decide to let her stay.

In the morning Snow White tells her story. The queen, believing her dead, goes to the mirror to hear it say that now she is the most beautiful creature living. Instead she learns the girl still lives. Determined to kill the king's child, the queen dresses up as an old woman, finds the cottage and nearly strangles Snow White. Again the dwarfs come home and again they save her. Again the queen finds out from the mirror that her attempts have failed.

The next time the queen tries to kill the beautiful little girl with a comb which she has touched with poison.

One day a handsome prince comes along, sees the coffin and begs to be allowed to take Snow White with him. First the dwarfs refuse. Then they consent. As the prince tries to pick up the coffin he lets it slip. The apple drops from Snow White's mouth and she wakes. The prince falls in love with her and asks her to be his wife. She marries the prince and lives happily ever after.

P. S.—If you'll never, never tell, I'll whisper a big secret in your ears, children.

These fairy tales are being made real for you by a band of happy children who have learned to act just like dwarfs and fairies and gnomes.

Snow White's other name is Elsie Herbert.

Ever see her in the "movies"?

The man who has found a way to bring the fairies to life is Director H. Matthews of the Powers' Picture company, who works on the Universal ranch near Los Angeles.

The next fairy tales to be shown to you will be "Beauty and the Beast" and "Babes in the Wood."

IF WE RETURNED TO THE DARK AGE

How Would You Like Horse Cars Coal Fires and No Telephones.

THE ELECTRIC AGE

Pittsburg, March 21.—"Having had a comfortable transformation of our methods of life during one short quarter of a century, or perhaps a little more, how would we like to go back to the things that were before that time?" was the startling query put forth by a Pittsburger of great affairs.

"Let us know just what you mean?" said the person queried.

"Well, telephones, electric cars, natural gas and electric lighting for instance, though in the industries there are a thousand things so advantageous that it is a wonder we were ever able to keep the wheels moving without them. Those would not be comprehended by the mass, but the electric car and the light, and the telephone and natural gas are known to every man, woman and child, therefore I refer to them particularly.

"There are men living in Pittsburg today, somewhat aged, of course, who will remember when buses were used to convey persons from one part of the city to another. Even the street car propelled by horses and mules was not yet in sight. The thought of laying rails in the streets on which to run cars with flange wheels was only a thought. But the cars came, and the first ones were sad affairs, yet no more pathetic, perhaps, than some that are now operated as trolley cars in this day, and that on several of the most prominent lines in the city.

The Aggravating Telephone.

"The first telephones," continued the man of affairs, "were something to make the most devout christian use more or less gentle profanity. You may say that it has not yet progressed beyond that condition, but those who remember the first telephones have no word of objurgation for those of this day. They had a sound like the beating of a tin pan and it was almost impossible to understand a word. One had to do a lot of guessing to make up any sort of communication.

"It was the opinion of many of the shrewdest business men of the city that 'the thing' would never be worth a cent as an investment. However, a friend of mine was one of the organizers of a company and an attempt was made to sell stock. The company had acquired the right for this territory for a song, as the saying goes, but friends of the members of the company jeered them at this repetition in new form of the South Sea Bubble. One of my friends who later in the course of a few years cleaned up several millions in real estate was an intimate of the head of the telephone company, but made all sorts of sulphurous remarks when he was asked to buy stock, delaring that 'the thing' would never be worth a tinker's dam.

"Improvements were made and the telephone began to talk so you could hear it. Other improvements were made, voices became clearer, long distance was established, and now there is a telephone in almost every house the family of which anybody desires to communicate with. If there is difficulty of understanding it is usually due to lack of clarity in the voice of the person talking. Millionaire as he is, my friend who so sneered at those first telephones, has always figuratively kicked himself that he did not grab a big block of stock.

"What would we do if we had to go back to the old methods of communication by letter or by messenger? We may ask in the same breath, what would we do if forced to return to the horse and mule motor?

When the Gas Goes Out.

"In the matter of gas it is not impossible that one day, far in the future, we may be compelled to return to the old way of living previous to the piping of the first well from Westmoreland county. One well after another has been exhausted and there may come a time when the last well available for piping to Pittsburg will 'pipe out.' New wells will more than likely be struck, however, in view of all the drilling for oil in this region, but they are not a certainty.

"But in this case the return to former conditions would not dismay as in the case of the telephones and the street cars. There would be a tremendous hustling for coal stoves, cooking and heating, and undoubtedly the liveliest sort of boom in artificial gas; for the many who have become used to the natural gas, for cooking and heating, would go on cooking and heating with the artificial creation no matter what the cost.

"Yet in the event of the failure of natural gas the soft coal stove would be resorted to by the mass of householders, black smoke would pour from scores of thousands of chimneys which have long been smokeless, cellars would be filled with coal that have long been coalless.

"There is another substantial possibility, however, that in the event of the failure of natural gas, electricity, that wonderful, mysterious agency for light and heat, may take the place of gas, and that thus the people may escape the trouble and soot and smoke that would result from a return to coal. With an intelligent employment of the great forces of water power, and the established possibility of transmission of the electrical current to long distances, it is within the province of prophecy to say that if natural gas fails, electricity may step in and to a great extent take its place for heating as well as lighting, and thus aid us to escape a revolution backward.

"It is almost inconceivable that all of these amazing changes should have taken place within the memory of persons yet living, and most of them within the knowledge of the generation which has just matured and again let me query: How would you like to hark back to the days of the horse and mule motor, the days when there was no telephone, the days of soft coal in nearly every house, the days when there was no electric light?"

AT THE TEMPLE

That the people of this city like vaudeville of the better class is being demonstrated this week at the Temple when the Walter McCullough company presenting the dramatic playlet "Conscience" receives at least a half dozen curtain calls at every performance. The playlet is of the better order. It is a pretty story well acted and will make you think. It is very much on the order of "Everywoman" which allows a wide scope for the display of the dramatic talent of McCullough in a fanciful character. Mr. McCullough is a notable actor, carries the role of the stranger from out the night, and his voice and acting leave an impression on the audience that you won't soon forget. Chrystal Benson as the wife and Richard Stanton as the husband are great in their respective roles. It is a notable production and one worth seeing not only once, but several times. The playlet was written by Ralph T. Kettering and Norman B. Buckley. Mr. McCullough toured with Lew Morrison in "Faust," James O'Neil in "Monte Cristo" and several other of the larger productions. He is a nephew of the great John McCullough.

AT THE EMPRESS

The notable engagement of Porter J. White and his associate players in the striking sensation, "Scandal," will be one of the brilliant features of the new Empress show next week. The show will be a remarkable one in many respects, being made up of a quintet of five metropolitan acts of class and quality. Emma Francis and her whirlwind Arabs are a distinctly big city act, this beautiful Oriental dancing novelty having been a recognized standard offering for several years. Hiubert and Kennedy will present their burnt cork specialty, Porter J. White and company follow with that brilliant sketch called "Scandal," and Pasino and Bingham and the Flying Fishers bring the bill to a close. The marvelous Kinemacolor pictures, changing twice each week, will include many interesting subjects for the coming week. These motion pictures in natural colors are an exclusive feature at the Empress.

AT THE JEFFERSON

A fine program of pictures are on at the Jefferson. Heading the list is a comedy, "The Younger Sister," from the Victor studio. This is a very clever comedy, well staged and acted. "Harvesting Ice on the Hudson River" is anexcellent educational, and on the same reel is "The Rivals," a comedy produced by the same juvenile stars that were seen in "Snow White" a few weeks ago. Susie Carsello, accordeonest at the night shows. This is the greatest musical novelty of the season.

Coming next week is Helen Gardiner in "Cleopatra," a mammouth six reel production that is superior to any thing yet produced in special features.

AT THE LYRIC.

The Lyric is offering today "The Pride of the South," and as the press agent says, "believe me, it is some picture." The film is in three big reels and tells a story of love, intrigue and pathos of the dear old south before the war.

Tomorrow, "The Grafters," a subject quite apropos in these days, will be the one big feature. "The Suitor" and "The Monkey," and a scenic will fill out the program.

DAILY HEALTHOGRAM.

Brown Patches on face and neck are due to constipation or congestion of the liver. External applications are of no value. Proper treatment under care of the family physician should be taken for underlying conditions.

If You've Charm, All Other Things Shall Be Added Unto You, Says Billie Burke

BILLIE BURKE SHOWS HOW IT IS NOT NECESSARY TO BE FASHIONABLE TO BE CHARMING.

There is probably no word most women like so well to hear applied to themselves as "charming."

We speak with enthusiasm of a "fine woman," a "grand character," and our admiration is sincere; we say a girl is "splendid" or, perhaps (if we are slangy) she is "dandy" and we like her well; but the word "charming" seems to be the epitome of all that is pleasing in femininity.

A good woman takes her goodness for granted and expects all the rest of the world to do likewise, so to say that she is "good" is not a dazzling compliment—she knows that! Besides many good people, both men and women, are often considered uninteresting and this fact rather discounts what otherwise she might feel to be a fine tribute.

A woman may be attractive in appearance and yet lacking in the personality that sustains interest. She may be good as gold yet without that charm of manner which fascinates and holds.

The quiet woman may, or may not, possess the talisman, as is also the case with her more vivacious sister. Many brainy women have undoubted charm, but the impression of strong intellect is not an absolute guarantee of an accompanying grace of manner; while, on the other hand, there are legions of women who have little or no intellectual pretension who fascinate us without our being able to analyze their magnetism. Nor is health an essential accompaniment, for many invalids and afflicted persons have rare charm.

"Gracious," gives something of the same idea as "charming," although it cannot be used so generally, for it conveys an impression of age or station, as in Max O'Reil's references to Mrs. Cleveland "the sweet, gracious woman, who received me on my first visit to the white house."

"Charming," on the contrary, may be used with reference to a child in pinafores as well as to the white-haired old lady.

Perhaps the nearest approach I can make to a definition, or rather explanation, of this elusive quality of charm is that it is the attribute of a deeply sympathetic temperament, an unselfishness which considers only the pleasure and comfort of others, and an abundant good nature, equal to all emergencies. The possessor of these characteristics is always at peace with the world, enjoys life to the utmost and also conduces to the pleasure of others.

The woman of real, inherent charm is one whose goodness of heart prompts her to be kindly and courteous to everybody. Emerson's remark that good manners are made up of pretty sacrifices, is to the point.

Belonging in the realms of childhood is a tale of the "Ugly Duckling," whose fairy godmother advised her to cultivate nice manners as she was denied the gift of beauty, and who, by following the good advice, won the heart of Prince Charming in spite of the great beauty of her more favored sisters. If, for the prince, we substitute happiness in large measure, and all that makes life worth while, the moral of the story is worth the attention of grown-ups.

GOOD COFFEE RAREST THING IN THE WORLD DECLARES CAROLINE COE.

By Caroline Coe.

Most Americans think the day has not begun right if they have been obliged to forego their cup of coffee, or what they are pleased to think is coffee!

Yet good coffee is one of the rarest things in the world!

I have never known any one who could successfully "brown" coffee in an iron skillet, although our grandmothers knew no other way. So I buy my coffee in small quantities with the berry roasted.

Every kitchen should contain a coffee grinder. They soon save their price.

Only grind each time the coffee to be used, as breaking the berry diffuses the aroma and liberates much of the essential oil.

For old-fashioned coffee the rule is: One tablespoonful for each person and one for the pot. Put the coffee into the pot. To clear it take one egg and the shell and beat it up with four tablespoonfuls of cold water, using one-third of this for six tablespoonfuls of coffee. The remainder of the egg-water will keep until used on the next two mornings.

Stir with a spoon so all the coffee may become coated with the egg mixture. Now turn into the coffee pot as many cups of boiling water as spoons of coffee used. Set on the fire and allow to boil briskly five minutes. Set back on the stove to "melt" for ten minutes.

Percolated coffee is the best coffee made and those who can afford a percolator will find that it will lessen the bills and that they can always have fine coffee. A cheaper grade of coffee can be used in a percolator than for "regulation" boiled coffee. Have the coffee pulverized, using one heaping teaspoonful for each cup, turn over it the same number of cupfuls of boiling water and allow it to percolate eight minutes.

If the frugal housekeeper will wash every egg she uses before breaking and will put the shells through a meat grinder she will find there is no need of using eggs to settle coffee. One tablespoonful of the ground eggshell put into the coffee pot with the coffee and two tablespoonfuls of cold water stirred well before adding the boiling water will make the coffee clear and amber colored.

CAROLINE COE.

Drip coffee can be made in any coffee pot. Take a cocoa can that will fit into the top of the coffee pot and punch fine holes in the bottom. Put into it the coffee, ground very finely, the same proportion as for boiled coffee—one tablespoonful to a cup of water. Turn the water slowly into the can, allowing it to drip slowly into the pot. Then put it on the back of the stove, where it will get hot but not boil. If desired very strong, take the coffee from the pot and turn it into the coffee can at the top for the second time. KEEP HOT, for after drip coffee cools it is not very good.

A warm drink at meals is better than a cold one, especially in cold weather. For when one is very tired cold or ice drinks affect the temperature of the stomach and delay digestion. It has been conceded that coffee somewhat retards digestion and acts as a stimulant to the nervous system. Still one cup of moderately strong coffee will not harm a healthy person.

TURN ON MEN WHO REGULATE DRESS

Woman Suggests Bureau in Washington to Govern Male Attire.

NEW OHIO LAW CAUSE

Chicago, March 21.—Man will no longer have to consult the fashion plate to see just how he should be dressed to be up to the instant in style and correctness of apparel. He will be able to get all his information from the bureau of correct dressing headquarters, Washington.

No matter whether he is a society man of the James Hamilton Lewis type or one addicted to gaudy and flaming colors, as is "Bathhouse" John Coughlin, he can look to the bureau for his "tips." The idea is Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop's, and was given last night to members of the Chicago Dressmakers' club at their semi-annual banquet.

Lawmakers Start It.

The idea was born when Mrs. Bishop heard of the bill introduced in the Ohio legislature to limit a decollette dress to showing no more than three inches of flesh below the point of the chin.

"What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander," said Mrs. Bishop. "Let's see if we can't help out the men."

She broached the subject to members of the Chicago's Woman's club. They were heartily in accord with the idea and immediately appointed a committee to put the plan in execution. By them another committee was appointed to lay the matter before congress to create the bureau.

"We have been very busy on this," said Mrs. Bishop last night. "We have interviewed men about their high collars and their stiff hats that make them bald and whether or not they think they should submit to the use of a public comb and brush in a barber shop and a hundred kindred things.

No More Fashion Hints.

"Our bureau will tell men just what they should wear and when they should wear it. Let them stay away from the fashion hints for information. Let them find out from Washington. We have appointed a committee to take the matter up there. There will be a man from the Chicago Association of Commerce and one from the Merchant's association. We will have a woman from the League of Cook County clubs and one from the World in Chicago association.

"This idea of dress means so much and has so much psychological effect that it cannot be considered too deeply. We should dress our children in brighter colors. The little orphans at the John Worthy school should be put in bright uniforms instead of dingy gray or brown.

Women to Wear White.

"School teachers should be paid more salaries so that they can wear beautiful clothing. They are the children's ideal and should dress to make the best impression."

Mme. A. Ripley also spoke on the question of dress and advocated the cleaning up of Chicago in order that the women may wear white and not be in danger of having it immediately soiled.

"White is the emblem of purity," she said, "and if all women should wear white it would have an effect on their morals, and we wouldn't have so much work for the white slave commission."

Little Tours Into Realm of Fashion

In Paris just now everybody smart aspires to be irreproachably natural from the crown of her head to the tip of her toes, and, as the latter do not take to naturalization as kindly as does the former, hairdressing bears the brunt of the new craze. The best people have given up the pomps and vanities of artifice. By this is not meant that they are content to leave their locks as straight and as sparse as they find them; that would be comparatively easy. The new way of renunciation will allow you to add as many pounds of hair to your head as may seem fit to yourself or your hairdresser, but it definitely forbids any change in color.

If you happen to be dark, dark you must remain, in spite of endless temptations to vary the program. Therefore, as a large majority of femininity began its grown-up life with dark hair, it has returned to its first state with surprising suddenness. Just now every fair-haired young person is eyed with suspicion. She may be as innocently golden as a babe, but, unless she displays a faultlessly yellow parting, no one will believe that nature had a finger in the tinting of her hair.

Let no one imagine, however, that common sense has anything to do with the new craze. In all matters of fashion it is the last consideration. Nor can we ascribe it to some inevitable reaction, to the swing of the pendulum, that convenient explanation of things otherwise inexplicable. Brown hair is the rage because a parting happens to be essential to modern hairdressing, and everybody knows that the secret of an artificially golden head will out at the roots, where it is impossible to keep up any golden pretense.

So Marguerite is out of fashion, not because her fairness has begun to pall, but because, in the present circumstances, it no longer deludes anybody. The poor hairdresser little dreamed what his banning of pads and curls and partingless pompadours would bring forth.

The natural head of hair has led, in due time, to a natural figure to match. But this time no virtue is made out of a necessity. Nothing prevents one from wearing an armor of whalebone, if so minded, but since it is possible to be happy untrammelled and yet be smart at the same time, wise people choose the easier way.

FOLEY SEES NO CHANCE TO AGREE

Switchmen Stand Firm and Strike Impends on 19 Railroads.

OFFER TO ARBITRATE

Chicago, March 21.—That the committee representing nineteen railroads entering Chicago and 5,000 switchmen living in the city will be unable to agree on the differences which have resulted in a threatened strike by the employes was the substance of a letter sent last night by T. J. Foley, chairman of the railroad managers' committee, to A. F. Whitney, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

To avoid unnecessary waste and inconvenience to the public the managers' committee has appealed to the employes' committee to join in a message to the chief justice of the commerce court and the acting commissioner of labor invoking mediation under the Erdman act. Attention is called to the fact that to reach a settlement of the differences joint sessions of the committee have been held from time to time during the last month.

The main question between the employers and employes is the demand of the latter for payment of time and a half for overtime and work on holidays. The employers have refused this concession.

The committee representing the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen held a session last night at the Grand Pacific hotel. Vice President Whitney yesterday sent a letter to the employers refusing to accede to a demand to waive the claim to payment for overtime. The switchmen's committee remained in session all day yesterday waiting for a reply to Mr. Whitney's communication. It was after 7 o'clock when the expected letter arrived.

"The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen's committee will not agree to anything but what we have indicated in reference to pay for overtime," said Mr. Whitney.

Letter of Employers.

"You state the employers' committee desires to deal fairly with the situation," reads the letter from the managers, "and exhaust every honorable effort to bring about a satisfactory and peaceful adjustment of our differences. This is the identical position taken by our committee. You state, however, in your letter of March 20 that you cannot withdraw the items involving payment of time and ad one-half, because of unalterable beliefs on the part of the members of your committee on this particular question and also because you interpret your instructions as compelling you to insist upon time and one-half. Therefore, it would seem that negotiations between parties having unalterable and irreconcilable convictions cannot lead to the adjustment of their differences without the intervention of impartial assistance.

"We believe the public will take the position that before any interruption shall be allowed to occur to the handling of interstate business your committee, as well as ours, is morally bound to invoke the law which was passed for the purpose of preventing such interruptions. Therefore, in the interest of the public, whom we all serve, and to prevent unnecessary economic waste affecting all parties in interest, the managers' committee now proposes to join the employes' committee in a message to the chief justice of the commerce court and the acting commissioner of labor, invoking mediation as provided for under the Erdman act and requesting a meeting with them for the purpose."

The members of the Brotherhood are determined in their position. They have voted solidly not to withdraw their demand with reference to overtime. "Our men are among the lowest paid men in organized labor," said Vice President Whitney. "We certainly will not consider taking this section from our demands."

KENDALLVILLE NEWS.

Kendallville, Ind., March 21.—A heavy windstorm swept over this city about eight o'clock this morning and did considerable damage. Several feet of the Toledo & Chicago interurban power house were again bent over in such a manner as to almost entirely shut off the draft of the furnaces. The car service is entirely stopped and likely will for a day or two. A similar accident occurred about three weeks ago when the car service was wholly impaired for three days while men from Fort Wayne cut off the bent portion of the stack. Two large plate glasses were broken at the Dice pool room in the Keller block, and one at the Kelly hotel. Prompt action of bracing all of the windows at the postoffice probably prevented their being broken. Two windows were blown in at the T. & C. I. offices at the opera house block, and other were several other cases of small damages.

PITCHER OFFERS MONEY FOR CLUB

Bill Essick Willing to Pay Nice Sum for Grand Rapids Club.

IS ABLE TO SWING IT

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 21.—Pitcher W. E. (Vinegar Bill) Essick, of the Grand Rapids Central league team, has reached the conclusion that the club here is a good business risk if rightly handled, and has made Owner Annis an offer for his franchise, park and players, the deal to be made at once if agreeable.

If accepted a greater amount will be paid for the franchise than ever before paid for a Grand Rapids baseball holding, not even excepting the several times in Western league days that Grand Rapids franchises were peddled. Essick has about made up his mind to retire from baseball as a player. He is regarded as one of the best pitchers in the league.

Possessed of ample means to swing the deal without asking outside aid, Essick is ready to close at once if Owner Annis accepts his proposition. A number of times the South Bend owner of the Grand Rapids team has expressed a desire to dispose of it, a deal being almost made last fall for the sale of his holdings to Joe McGinnity, the former major league pitching star.

Manager Ed Smith and Pitcher Essick are warm personal friends, and if the deal is made there will be no change made in that respect, Essick planning on pitching in his turn and looking after the business and Smith managing the team on the field. He also expects to expend several thousand dollars in the purchase of desirable players and make every effort to make the team a winner.

Essick wintered in Chicago, where he owns some property, and is employed in the music department of a big department store. He is a graduate of a leading western college in music and is the son of wealthy parents, as is also Mrs. Essick. He plans to make his home here if the deal is made.

Catchers—Arthur Watson, last year with Madison, of Wisconsin-Illinois league; Charles Nuddleman, Chicago.

First Baseman—Doc Schmick, Grand Haven; Ed Sabre, Charleston, S. C.; Ike Mautner, Chicago; Harvey De Long, Antwerp, O.

Second Baseman—Ben Koehler, of South Bend.

Third Basemen—Johnny Barkwell, of Greenup, Ill., and Clifford Austin, of Cleveland.

Shortstops—Andy Bowen, of Newberry, S. C., and one other.

Outfielders—Vincent Tydeman, Camden, N. J.; Teddy Kroy, Milwaukee; Larry Lejeune, Grand Haven; Gider Lane, Toledo.

Above is the list of players announced by Manager Ed Smith. He says that if the weather conditions continue as favorable for the balance of the week as they have been for the last two days the battery workers and the young players of the team will be ordered to report a week from today, the veterans on the Tuesday following.

All but three of the players named have signed. Tydeman has accepted terms, but has not signed. Lejeune is a holdout, but is expected to be on hand early. Essick has not signed. None will be permitted to practice with the team until they have signed. All of the new men come well recommended. A deal is on whereby First Baseman Bill Clancey, last year with Fort Wayne, may come here. Manager Smith says he is satisfied he will have a winner.

Barkwell is training now at West Baden. All the other players will start their training here. Groundkeeper Bill Silvers will make every effort to have the grounds fit when the men begin reporting. Two weeks from next Saturday and Sunday the Grand Rapids Brass team may play the Black Sox.

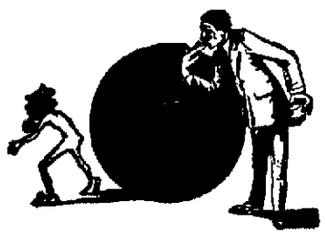
REDDIN CORNERS SPRUNG SURPRISE

Turners Did Not Look for Such Stiff Opposition in Basket Ball Game.

Reddin Corners sprung a surprise on the Turner Juniors in their hall on West Superior street last night when its basket ball team battled right down to the finish. The Turners won 25 to 23 but had to be up and going all the time to do it.

Pimples Source of Great Danger

May be Means of Absorbing Disease Germs in Most Unexpected Manner.



The research laboratory of The Swift Specific Co. has collected a vast amount of information regarding the spread of blood diseases. In thousands of instances the most virulent types have been the result of coming in contact with disease germs in public places, and the apparently insignificant pimple has been the cause. It spreads with astonishing rapidity, often infecting the entire system in a few days.

It is fortunate, however, that there is a remedy to cope quickly and thoroughly with such a condition, and thanks to the energy of its producers the famous S. S. S. may not be had at almost any drug store in the civilized world.

This preparation stands alone among specific remedies as a blood purifier. It is somewhat revolutionary in its composition, since it accomplishes all that was ever claimed for mercury, iodides, arsenic and other destructive mineral drugs, and yet it is absolutely a purely vegetable product. There are more cases of articular rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, paresis, neuritis and similar diseases resultant from the use of minerals than from disease germs direct. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book compiled by the medical department of The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with a special letter of advice to all who are struggling with a blood disease.

Get a $1.00 bottle of S. S. S. today of your druggist. It will surprise you with its wonderful action in the blood.

CAPONI HARD AT WORK FOR FIGHT

Has Been Told to Be Careful in His Mill With Coakley.

TAKING NO CHANCES

Chicago, March 21.—Acting on the advice of his friends, who have heard something of the boxing ability of Glen Coakley, who is regarded here as one of the possibilities in the middleweight division, Tony Caponi is working hard to get in condition for his bout at Fort Wayne next week.

At first the local battler was disposed to hold his opponent lightly but friends confided to him that Coakley is young and strong, has improved wonderfully in the last few years in his boxing and is ambitious to break into the class with Mike Gibbons, Caponi and Eddie McGoorty and that he has a prospect of getting within the circle.

Not much is known here of Coakley as he has done so little work in the west that his fame has not reached Chicago but some boxing fans who saw him box around Pittsburg and saw him in Al Palzer's camp down east last summer say that he looks good enough to give any of the men in his class a stiff struggle.

Caponi cannot afford to get beaten by a man who is practically unknown, and he realizes that just as well as any of his friends do but until the last few days he had not been informed that he has an undertaking on his hands that warrants him in preparing for the go just as faithfully as if he were going on with one of the men who have established themselves as claimants.

COAKLEY WANTS TO WIN.

Sees Best Chance He Has Ever Had to Go to the Front.

Glen Coakley was a little bit pleased today when he was informed that Chicago is taking notice and that Caponi had been advised to look out for him. He wants to win this mill as it is the best chance he has ever had and he is working hard to get in condition.

If he beats Caponi he can command matches with the other top notchers in the same class and if he does nothing more than stand his man off he will have accomplished more than most boxers in his division have done, and an even break will help his chances.

He has difficulty in obtaining sparring partners. There are plenty of light boxers here who can spar with him for a round or two but none is big enough to go in and rough it half a dozen rounds and this is the sort of work he stands mostly in need of.

First Glimpse of New Road Uniforms

HENRY JACOBS.

This is the first glimpse of Claude H. Varnell's new spring outfit of road uniforms for his Billiken baseball troupe. Henry Jacobs is his chum, and he always gets "a" uniform or "an" uniform, whichever is right. This is the quietest thing Mr. Varnell has done for several years.

Beginning with the checks that Jimmy Burke and his 1911 near-champs wore, the local owner has cut some queer capers in the selection of his away from home haberdashery but this year he has picked something nice and orderly and had Henry Jacobs pose for a picture with one on.

Henry always got a uniform or an uniform and appeared in it when Fort Wayne played in Wheeling. Just what he will do this season is a question. He lives next door to the Billiken owner, and the two are fast friends.

Fort Wayne council, No. 1427, Knights and Ladies of Security, will give a dance in the hall above the Star theater tonight.

EARL BLACKBURN HAS BEEN SHOWING JOHNNY EVERS THAT HE CAN THROW AND WILL BE THIRD MAN.

Mobile, Ala., March 21—L-a-d-i-e-s and gent'men, Earl Blackburne!

This young ex-high school catcher from Massillon, O., who worked as second catcher for the Springfield Central league club last season, seems reasonably certain to be third string man of the Cincinnati team this year.

Blackburne is 20, he's as handsome as a moving picture hero and the girls will just perfectly well be telling each other he's "a dear," when Garry Hermann's candidates perform every ladies' day.

If Blackburne and his good looks had broken into baseball in the day of Kelly, Fogarty, Anson and that crew, he'd have led a miserable existence, but the game has passed the primer stage, despite the contradiction of Charlie Ebbetts, and today men of the Blackburne stamp are quite the thing.

As a catcher Blackburne has two advantages. He looks like Roger Bresnahan, being built from his heels up, like the Gatun dam, and he has a throwing arm which, in the opinion of Manager Joe Tinker, classes with those of the best receivers in the National league.

It was Harry Smith, Boston catcher, who "discovered" Blackburne and tipped him off to Pittsburg. The Pirates sent him to Springfield of the Central league, where he played in 68 games. He played 30 games in the outfield because of his hitting, and turned in a batting average of .278 last year. This season he will probably warm up pitchers, but in 1914 he ought to be doing his share of the backstopping for the Reds.

BOWLERS TO AID THE EARLY WORK

Many of Them Will File Entry Blanks Before Big Rush.

MEN ARE LINING UP

Bowlers have agreed to expedite the early work of the Fort Wayne tournament to be held next month by filing their entry blanks before the big rush that will come with the few days preceding the expiration of the time limit and this will be of invaluable assistance to the men who have the clerical work to perform.

In former years when city tournaments were arranged it was necessary to fix some sort of a handicap in order to get the majority of the men in and this plan was never satisfactory, as some difficulty was encountered in fixing averages from which to figure, but there will be none in this event because there has been such rapid strides in the development of the players that none is found necessary.

In addition to the bowlers connected with the Brunswick leagues the Fort Wayne Bowling association and the shop league teams have been promised from St. Mary's, the Lyceum and several of the new organizations in the German Lutheran churches.

All of these church organizations take a great amount of pride in their athletic associations and for this reason there is some desire to see which is turning out the best bowlers.

Fort Wayne has become a big bowling center and its showing in the last national tournament indicates the calibre of the men who are making names for themselves in the sport. This is behind the city tournament movement to a great extent and while the prizes to be offered will be worth while there are three city championships at stake in the five-men, doubles and single events.

Secretary "Pit" Snyder is busy helping round up the bowlers and says the prospect is good.

BROWN PULLS IN AND LOOKS FINE

Great Pitcher Hopes to Make Good in the Red's Squad.

WORKED SHORT TIME

Mobile, Ala., March 21—Mordecai Brown arrived yesterday morning from Chicago looking the picture of health and quite hopeful that his injured knee will be strong enough to allow him to take his regular turn in the Red box. The knee has been in a rast for several weeks and is still a little weak from the long rest, but Brownie says that it does not hurt him at all, and he trusts that it will come around all right. He will go very easily on it for a week or so, taking no chances on a setback.

Brown has been working all winter in a gymnasium in Chicago, coaching young McCormick in the pitching art. His arm is in perfect shape, and all that is necessary for him to be as effective as he ever was is for his knee to develop strength enough to enable him to use all his speed.

He is very sure it will do so. He was welcomed profusely by Manager Tinker and all the boys, who are pulling for the great veteran to have a good year. Even if Brownie does not pitch much he will be a big help to the club in coaching the younger pitchers. He is tickled to death to be with Tinker. He is anxious to help Joe make good with the Reds.

Before yesterday's game Brown worked out in the Red box and gave a grand exhibition. With a brace on his right knee he seemed to have not the slightest trouble with it and showed as much speed and as big a curve as he ever had. None of the regular batters could do a thing with him. He drove them away from the plate with his fast ones, and then curved a fooler over and fanned them. He even had Manager Tinker backing away from the plate while the ball was bending right across the center.

Brownie was in the box for twenty minutes, and he looked as good as he ever did in his life. This wasn't enough for him, so he went out on the sidelines and practiced batting with some of the recruits for half an hour during the progress of the contest. He said tonight that he had no pain at all from his knee and he firmly believes that he is going to be able to take his regular turn. Manager Tinker was wonderfully pleased with his showing.

"If Brown can keep up the form he showed today," said Joe, "he will be of the greatest assistance to us. I was very much surprised at the way he worked out there in the box. He looks just like his old self. I really believe he is going to be all right."

SNYDER MAY NOT GET IN CENTRAL

Indianapolis is Thinking of Retaining Catcher for Club.

GOOD IN PRACTICE

Springfield, O., March 21.—Catcher Frank Snyder, secured from the St. Louis Cardinals and turned over to the Reapers by President Sol Meyer, may not be seen in action at Washington park the coming season.

If reports from Indianapolis are to be believed he is to stick with the Indianapolis club the coming season.

Manager Mike J. Kelley, of the Indians, has been so wonderfully impressed with Snyder's showing at West Baden that it is claimed he will not think of sending the Texas giant to this city.

After seeing Snyder in practice Manager Kelley has decided that he is the making of a star backstop and has decided to retain him for the Indianapolis [illegible] on him there.

Snyder filled his first professional engagement with the Michigan State league last year. He had always played third base but was sent behind the bat by the manager. From the start he proved a sensation and before the season was a month old he was purchased by the St. Louis Cards. He did not get a chance and warmed the bench until sent to Louisville.

At the close of the season he was recalled and then sold to the Reapers. Snyder is 6 feet 2 inches and plays ball because he loves the game. He is rich, having money invested in three prosperous home enterprises in his home city, San Antonio, Tex.

Rumor has it that Vann, drafted by Indianapolis from the Hartford club of the Connecticut league, will be sent here in place of Snyder. If such proves the case the local fans will not have much cause to kick, because Vann can clout the ball. He has been known to lose it. He is a promising youngster and is sure to shine in the Central league.

SMITH HAS HARD TASK.

New President of Shop League Anxious to Get Matters Settled.

President Charles F. Smith has had a most difficult task in linking up the clubs for the shop league of 1913 and he is just a little bit anxious to have the most important questions settled and he hopes at the meeting tonight to finish up most of the preliminary work.

A special meeting will be held at the Commercial club and it is most earnestly asked by the president that every team be represented. Only seven clubs are in the fold now and it will be decided whether to cut one off and make the circuit six or secure another and make it eight.

The forfeit money is due to be paid at this meeting and this and the other details that are to be settled promises a busy session.

THORPE CAN NOT SHOW THIS YEAR

Is Too Green to Get on the Giant Roster for This Season.

MAY A YEAR LATER

Jim Thorpe, the famous Indian athlete now a member of the Giants, may make a good ball player some day, but not this year.

It is likely to take several years of the coolest application and constant instruction before he can be made a star.

As he stands today the redskin who got a chance at professional baseball through his sensational disqualification as an amateur, is just a raw recruit. He knows less of the game than any player in the camp. He misjudges many fly balls. He is as fleet as lightning going down to first, but as for making the circuit of bases he is rather slow, because he doesn't know how to efficiently turn the corners. Moreover, he would get down to first base much faster than he does if he knew how to break away from the plate.

The Indian stings the ball hard enough when he lands his bat on it, but he is unused to curve pitching and sometimes is badly fooled by this sort of twirling. He can hit either a high or low ball with equal facility.

Thorpe has aroused so much interest the country over that Manager McGraw will undoubtedly use him in the line-up in the exhibition games on the way north, but when the regular season starts (if he is not sent to the minors for further seasoning) he will be obliged to warm the bench. In speaking of Thorpe, McGraw says:

"There is one good thing about him—he knows little about the game so he hasn't any bad habits to unlearn. He is different from some of the other recruits, because I can tell him how to do something and he will follow my advice quickly while the other youngsters often have ideas of their own or habits which are hard to break. The reports of Thorpe's great hitting as chronicled in the newspapers are making it tougher for him every day."

MACK TOOK BACK HIS LIEUTENANT

FANS WANTED DAVIS

Philadelphia, March 21.—Connie Mack has gone against his generally accepted principles and taken back into his fold a man he has once handled and finally allowed to get away. Only once has he done so, and that time in the case of Bris Lord, the outfielder, who was with the 1905 pennant winning Athletics, was cut loose and then came back to share in the championship honors of 1910 and 1911.

The man in question at present is Harry Davis, Connie's former star first baseman, and later able lieutenant and field director. After Harry Davis' failure as Cleveland manager last year he drifted back to Philadelphia, where he went into business with the intention of retiring from the game.

During the present winter he has had scores of offers of chances to manage in the class A. A. league and larger minors, but he has steadfastly declined. He said that he would not go back into baseball except in Philadelphia.

Manager Mack thought the matter over and at the same time kept his ear close to the ground to get the sentiment of the Philadelphia fans, a favorite idea of the Quakers' astute manager. Finally he tendered Davis a contract which the former Nap manager lost no time in signing.

Many baseball men of long experience and a big body of the fans believed that Connie had made a mistake when he allowed his desire to aid Davis to a better place as Cleveland manager to run away with his judgment as to what was best for his team. Several of the players at the close of the season expressed the opinion that if Davis had been with them all season to help Connie out as he did in past years, the Athletics would never have crumbled up as they did.

As Connie is now a half owner of the club, and would be glad to ease up his duties, he may put Davis in charge and gradually draw away if he feels that Davis can handle the club without assistance. In this he will follow the plan Charles Comiskey, of Chicago, adopted a number of years ago.

CONWAY IS HOLDING OUT.

Youngstown Player Says He Will Not Play With Youngstown Club.

Youngstown, O., March 21.—Charley Conway has delivered his ultimatum to the local baseball team. The local boy has absolutely refused to consider playing professional ball the coming season, maintaining that it will profit him more to remain in his position. Charley stated this morning that he would probably be at the head of a local semi-pro team if present plans did not miscarry. The Steelmen's former left fielder is now keeping books for a local liquor firm. Conway will be missed by the local club unless some of the young talent now signed develops wonderfully. Charley has won many a ball game for Youngstown by delivering a beautiful hit in a pinch.

HASN'T COST SAN FRANCISCO WOMEN A CENT TO INITIATE THE RECALL OF POLICE JUDGE WELLER.

FILING THE PETITION FOR THE RECALL OF POLICE JUDGE WELLER WITH THE REGISTRAR OF SAN FRANCISCO. READING FROM LEFT TO RIGHT: PHILALETHA MICHELSON, TWAIN MICHELSON (ATTORNEY FOR THE WOMEN), AND MRS. ALICE BEST, PRESIDENT OF THE WELLER RECALL LEAGUE. MRS. BEST IS HANDING A PETITION TO J. H. ZEMANSKY, REGISTRAR. THE ELECTION COMMISSIONERS ARE IN THE BACKGROUND WATCHING THE PROCEEDINGS.

BY VIVIAN PIERCE.

San Francisco, Cal., March 21.—The women say they are going to recall a judge. For the first time in California the people's power to recall judges will be invoked, when the unseating of Police Judge Charles L. Weller in favor of Wiley F. Crist, the women's candidate, goes before the voters on April 22.

Judge Weller says he is being persecuted. He says he is "part of the system," he says he "hadn't time to examine" some of the cases the women find fault with. The women say that it is because he is part of "the system," a system that does not stand for justice to the poor and helpless, a system that protects and favors certain interests inimical to young girls that they consider him unfit to be a judge.

There was much laughter among the powers that be, the corrupt powers that have been elected police judges in San Francisco, when a little handful of home women announced that they would recall Judge Weller. They decided to recall him because he lowered the bail of a man who was accused of having attempted to commit rape on a 17-year-old girl he had lured on an automobile ride. After the lowering of the bail the man, Hendricks, fled the jurisdiction of the court. That little body of home women from the locality in which the girl lives were indignant. They decided to "buck the police court machine," to start a movement for the cleanup of the police courts, and begin by recalling the judge who lowered that bail.

Those women who took on their shoulders this gigantic task were Mrs. W. H. Campbell, a little gray-haired motherly woman who had originally come to the rescue of the girl in the Hendricks case; Mrs. Alice Best, an artist who gave up her home and studio life for the campaign, and Miss Isabel Munson. These were the originators of the movement that has grown like a snowball, with the most prominent women in San Francisco entering the ranks to oust Judge Weller.

And the movement has grown because investigation by the women has proven that police courts have failed to administer justice and, above all, failed to protect girls. A young lawyer, Twain Michelson, a lawyer so young he had just begun to practice and had no clients clamoring at his door, helped them dig up and verify the records. In these verified records they have proved the average bail in offenses against girls to have been $300 against $3,000 for offenses involving property. These findings have aroused the women of San Francisco against Judge Weller. His record, in that he has dismissed many such cases, is worse than that of any other judge.

"What has it cost to put this recall before the voters?" the women were asked. "It has cost nothing," was the amazing answer. Dollars and fifty-cent pieces and an occasional five volunteered by the women themselves, paid for printing the petitions and the printing of the leaflets setting forth Judge Weller's record. Three hundred and fifty home women circulated the petitions without pay in every quarter of San Francisco, "held up" men on street corners, took their petitions to the churches and the theaters for voters to sign. The larger campaign, in which their own candidate is assisting, has just begun after an expenditure of just $72.50. Did you ever hear of a campaign engineered by men run on such lines?

The young man the women of San Francisco have nominated to succeed Judge Weller—Wiley Crist—is 35 years of age and has been practicing law in San Francisco eight years. He is a young man who is used to bucking machines. He was instrumental in raising liquor licenses after the fire, and engineered a campaign to get cheaper telephone rates for the people. He has put up a fine platform and is speaking on his own behalf. He says he considers it the greatest honor that has ever come to him to run as the women's candidate against a corrupt judge, and declares he is going to win the fight for them.

WOULD PENSION WORTHY MOTHERS

Thereby Judge Would Lessen Number of Incorrigible Children.

ARRANGES A PLAN

New York, March 21.—Judge Franklin C. Hoyt, sometimes of the children's court at Third avenue and Eleventh street, holds environment responsible for much of the wrong-doing of youngsters.

"I believe," he says, "that many of the children who are brought to this court as incorrigible have become so not through any fault of their own, nor through the direct fault of the parent, but by forced neglect, forced irregularity of life and lack of system in the home. The father leaves the house in the morning for work; so, often, does the mother. They are employed in sweatshops, in factories or in some sort of labor where the hours are long. The littlest children are left to the elder ones to look after. Returning to the home at night, the parents are fatigued. Meals are thrown out of kilter, bedtime is a jagged affair. And during the day the child has been subject to many bad influences. These conditions in homes are filling the institutions with incorrigible children and are doing a great deal to break up the family.

"Wilfully negligent parents ought to be dealt with more severely than the child. Unfortunately it is impossible for us to punish these as they deserve.

"Then there are the parents who struggle to keep the family together but cannot. Such cases fill one with pity, and there is nothing to be done but send the children to protectories. I believe in a pension for such mothers. The state is paying $2.50 a week for each child sent to a protectory. If this money were given to the worthy mother there would not be so many incorrigible children from families where the only trouble is poverty."

A child can trade with the Foster Furniture Co. as well as an adult. They have but one price and that the lowest.

SUMMER RATES TO THE LAKES

Lake Shore Springs Agreeable Surprise Upon the Agents and Patrons.

IMPROVEMENTS AT WESTERN GAS WORKS

Company Putting in a New Boiler and Increasing the Power.

Agent Ray Phillips, of the Lake Shore and the Lake Erie and Western, received a bit of welcome news this morning from the passenger department. It was the announcement that rates to the lakes in the northern part of the state and in southern Michigan touched by that line would go into effect April 1 and remain effective until October 1, with final return limit October 31. The rate, with the exception of the time limit, is the same as in effect last year. For ten ride tickets the price will be as follows: Fort Wayne to Angola, $4.10; Fort Wayne to Fremont, $4.00; Fort Wayne to Pleasant Lake, $3.65, and Fort Wayne to Ray, $5.30. These tickets will be good only for the parties named on them, the number not to exceed five. The train service will also be the same as last summer, with the special train service commencing in June and earlier if necessary. Until this information reached Mr. Phillips it was believed here that the Lake Shore would not do as well by the cottagers and fishermen this as last year.

Western Gas Company Increasing Its Power Plant.

For a week or so the factory of the Western Gas Construction company will be handicapped by a shortage in power and not be able to run all of the machinery up to the full capacity. PUTTING IN NEW MACHINES.

The first of a lot of new machines to be installed this spring in the Pennsylvania shops is now being installed. It is a 42-inch horizontal milling machine with a capacity of fourteen feet. It weighs upwards of 55,000 pounds and the operator will be able to "mill" two main locomotive rods at once and do the work in a short time. This is the largest milling machine in the city and possibly the largest in the state. Other machines are to be installed and some are now en route from the factory and will be here next week.

An Everyday View of the Next Sunday School Lesson

MARCH 23—ISAAC AND REBEKAH.

Lesson Text, Genesis 24. Golden Text, Proverbs 3:6: In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he will direct thy paths.

The last time we saw Isaac he was standing by an altar awaiting his death. Today we are introduced to an altar of another kind, not of wood but of gold. The story of Isaac's courtship and marriage is one of the most beautiful idyls ever written. For thousands of years it has lain like a jewel by the highway of history. Everything connected with the event moves into its place with percision. Isaac himself was a pliable subject in the hands of another. He was now 40 years old, and so far had shown no desire to live apart from his father and mother.[4] Their strong personalities overshadowed him as the pine overshadowed the willow, but he seems to have been perfectly content. Like others of his class, he found life ready made for him.

But one day Sarah, his mother, was carried out to Machpelah, and with his father he returned to a desolate home. Under such circumstances the father usually turns to his children, but Isaac was perhaps negative comfort. For this he was not altogether to be censured. It was his misfortune to have been born rich and the only son of indulgent parents.

Isaac Willing to Accept Father's Judgment in Matter of Marriage.

At the age of 40 most men are either married or have had an affair of the heart; but Isaac appears to have been an exception. Abraham lived with God's promise ever before him, and through Isaac lay his only hope of its fulfillment. The son no doubt was ready to marry providing the annoyance of detail was assumed by another. In the Orient marriage was arranged by the parents. The parties most interested were scarcely consulted. Sometimes it turned out for the better and sometimes for the worse, as it does today. Systems are never infallible, but the suggestion is important. If young people listened more to their parents at this, the most important crisis in their lives, the divorce mills would have less to do. But infatuation is often mistaken for love and both are deaf to the voice of reason.

Finally the caravan arrives at Haran and the event at the well becomes history. That scene has never received its full justice at the hand of teh artist. The lines are too fine and the colors too delicate for human touch. And the one feature more marvelous than all else is the very one most likely to escape appreciation—the part played by the steward. No ambassador at any court ever acquitted himself with greater skill. It was diplomacy reduced to science. For some reason Bethuel, the father, who should have acted as one of the principals, seems to have taken a secondary part in the transaction. But this could have made no material difference, as his place was taken by his son Laban, one of the most adroit manipulators in Jewish history. His peculiarities the steward seems to have read as if by instinct, and a sight of the jewels was quite sufficient to inspire the invitation: "Come in, thou blessed of Jehovah; wherefore standest thou without?"

Servant With Supreme Eloquence Proposes Marriage of Isaac and Rebekah.

Eliezer, for he the steward undoubtedly was, proved more than equal to the occasion. He accepted the invitation and at the table gave the world a masterpiece of eloquence scarcely surpassed in literature. Every possible objection to the marriage was met in advance. Isaac, it will be remembered, was 40 years of age, and Rebekah possibly 20. The grandfather of the one was a brother to the father of the other. Eliezer was not unmindful of the discrepancy, as he remarked incidentally that Isaac was born when his mother was old. And then follows what must have been of more interest to Laban, that unto Isaac had Abraham committed all that he had.

All this had its influence, but Eliezer had lived too long with Abraham not to know the power of faith. The Lord God of his Master Abraham had sent him, and what answer should he give when he returned to his master? To such earnestness there is usually but one answer. The farefell was a benediction in harmony with all that had gone before. The procession was soon reformed with its face toward the west, and there at the end of the journey stood Isaac, waiting for his bride.

It will be remembered that when the patriarch left Haran sixty-five years before, his brother Nahor remained behind. This brother had also become rich in children and goods. Why not seek a wife for his son from among his own kindred? To come of a good family is a valuable asset in character. One is more likely to find a Rebekah among the descendants of Nahor than from the Philistines. But Haran was 500 miles away. The patriarch was in a dilemma and no doubt wished a thousand times for but one word from Sarah, the counselor of his life. But Sarah was not there, and in the absence of friends one must act for himself. Abraham was strong in two things—faith and common sense. Both are essential to the solving of the problems of life.

Abraham Chooses Servant to Plead Isaac's Cause at Haran.

In accordance with the custom of the times someone must go to Haran and press the claims of Isaac at the court of Nahor. But who should this be? The patriarch was too old, and Isaac was too young, not in years, but in stability of purpose. Should he go he was likely to remain and Canaan would be lost as the land of promise. When the best thing becomes impossible the next best takes it place. Abraham had a servant whom he trusted. To this man he would commit the responsibility of the mission, but first he must swear that in no event should Isaac go back to the land of his forefathers, or marry outside the line of his kindred.

The escort was worthy the ocasion. A caravan of ten camels was fitted out and took up its march in the direction of Haran. In those days the idea of compensation was not entirely absent from marriage, and the groom rewarded the parents, in turn, for the gift of their daughter. Abraham's servant was well furnished to meet any exigency. His display of bracelets and rings would naturally bewilder the sight of the simple-minded Rebekah, even if they failed to unlock her heart.

New Treasurer Had Forgotten Job and Tarried in Chicago.

WAIT TO COUNT CASH

Chicago, March 21.—LOST—Somewhere in America, one John Burke, treasurer of the United States. Anyone knowing his whereabouts kindly notify Uncle Same, as there is over a billion dollars waiting for him.

[Want "ad" the United States had planned to insert in newspapers today.]

While various officials of the government were scouring the country yesterday for John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, now the new treasurer of the United States, for the purpose of formally installing him into office, the "lost" official, with an "I should worry" look on his face, was paying a quiet visit in Chicago.

When Mr. Burke failed to show up before the treasury department at the appointed hour yesterday to take his oath of office Secretary McAdoo immediately started burning up the wires in an effort to reach him. The first inquiry was flashed around North Dakota, but no trace of him was found there.

Search Worries Family.

New York state was the next point of inquiry, and finally a general "C. Q. D." was flashed around the nation. Within a few hours Secretary McAdoo was swamped with telegrams from friends and relatives of the missing man, who became more worried over the new treasurer than was the treasury department.

It was not until Mr. Burke had telephoned for a reservation on a late afternoon train for Washington that his whereabouts became known to the searchers. Folowing his telephone conversation the ticket agent notified the newspapers and the nation-wide search was ended.

Forgets His New Job.

Mr. Burke was found in the office of his brother, Edmund Burke, sales manager of the Canadian department of the International Harvester company, with whom he had been having a pleasant chat during the day.

"What's all the fuss about?" inquired Mr. Burke. "Can't a man visit his folks without causing such a rumpus?"

"Yes, but you were due in Washington to take the oath of office today," he was informed.

"By George," the new treasurer exclaimed, "I forgot all about that new job. I should have started to work today. Wonder if Uncle Sam will dock me."

To Count Nation's Wealth.

The treasury department is anxious to receive the new official because his entry into office means the necessity of counting the nation's wealth. To verify the accounts of Carmi Thompson, retiring treasurer, the gold, silver, currency and securities in the treasury vaults actually will be counted by a committee which Secretary McAdoo is prepared to appoint as soon as Mr. Burke is sworn in. The transfer of funds from Thompson to Burke will be the greatest single financial transaction from man to man in the history of the world, exceeding the $1,400,000,000 received by Mr. Thompson three months ago from his predecessor, Lee McClung.

Attorney D. Burns Douglass, trustee in the Amos E. Houk bankruptcy matter, accompanied by Mrs. Houk, went to the former offices of the defaulting republican chairman Thursday afternoon and removed his personal belongings to the trustee's office in the Schmitz block. Nobody in Fort Wayne seems to have any knowledge of the whereabouts of Mr. Houk.

DR. FRIEDMANN HOLDS A CLINIC

Physician is Beset by Many Sufferers at Doors of Hospital.

SCENE IS PATHETIC

New York, March 21. In the presence of scores of physicians gathered from all parts of the country, many of them representing city health boards, Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann treated thirty-five patients with his tuberculosis vaccine yesterday. Twenty-nine of the sufferers were deformed babies. Before holding his demonstration the Berlin specialist issued a statement advising out-of-town persons not to come to New York with hope of being treated until after the government has passed on his vaccine at the conclusion of its inquiry.

At the doors of the hospital for deformities and joint diseases, Dr. Friedmann was beset by a throng of sufferers who implored him to take them with him in out of the rain and administer his treatment. The patients he attended, however, were ones already selected, awaiting his arrival at the hospital and he had to force his way gently through the crowd of disappointed men and women. A mother with a child sank to her knees, holding the baby toward the physician in out-stretched arms.

During the clinic a seventeen year old boy walked into the operating room. He was a patient treated with the vaccine twelve days ago.

"Look at my leg," he said to Dr. Friedmann, baring his knee. "When you injected your vaccine, I could hardly move, the leg was so swollen. Now I know that I will get well." The boy went through examination by the gathered physicians.

Diseases of the bones were treated today. Tomorrow Dr. Friedmann will hold a clinic at Bellevue hospital, treating pulmonary cases. Dr. Friedmann has requested the government physicians who attended the clinic today to place Dr. Arthur Atkinson, a Wisconsin physician, on the list of patients to be treated at Bellevue.

John Helling, of the transformer department, and G. E. Thomas, of the meter testing department of the Electric works, are sick and off duty.

YOUNG ASKS FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

Files Two Suits Against Albert Grover Who Caused Arrests.

OTHER COURT CASES

Two suits were filed in the circuit court this afternoon in each of which John W. Young demands $5,000 of Albert H. Grover, who caused him to be arrested twice on charges of malicious trespass. The two have been engaged in litigation for some time.

Young says in his complaint that Grover caused his arrest on March 7 on a warrant for malicious trespass, that the case was transferred from Justice Yancey's court to that of Justice Huser and that he was acquitted on the trial of the action.

He says that last February the same charge was preferred against him in Justice Grabner's court and that he was acquitted there. Phil B. Colerick and C. J. Ryan are his attorneys.

Prisoner Defending Lawsuit.

Noah E. Barrett, who was arrested some time ago on a charge of perjury preferred in connection with evidence given in a civil suit in the circuit court, was a defendant in the same court today in an action brought against him by Jay Hindman.

Both are residents of Wells county and Barrett rented a farm and it is alleged sold produce that was encumbered and the action brought by Hindman is to secure an accounting. Hindman is an attorney and is trying the case for himself. Judge Edward O'Rourke is acting special judge.

Are Not Superstitious.

In spite of the fact that it is Friday and that on the ordinary Friday most couples avoid the marriage license desk Walter Pearson and Ethel B. Patterson indicated they are not tafraid. They obtained a license and the records show he is twenty-two and a locomotive fireman and that she is twenty-one.

Calling in Witnesses.

Members of the grand jury were engaged today in the examination of witnesses called from the outside to corroborate the stories told by the girls either under arrest or in custody of the courts.

It is not likely that an adjournment will take place before the middle of next week as there is still a lot of testimony to be taken.

Notes of the Courts.

Edna Althouse asks a divorce from Thomas Althouse, charging that he cursed her, got drunk and remained out until unseemly hours in the morning. She asks a restraining order prohibiting his disposal of property pending the suit. Phil B. Colerick is her attorney.

Andrew A. Ransom has filed a suit for damages in the sum of $250 for the loss of a horse which he claims was struck by an automobile driven by Louis Blase. Phil B. Colerick is his attorney.

DISASTER IN MANY POINTS.

Sweep of Storm Through the South Is Terrific.

Macon, Miss., March 21. The storm was terrific in force at this point and reports from surrounding territory tell of disaster in many quarters. Several negroes were instantly killed in a settlement north of this city at an early hour. Wire communications with neighboring towns has been cut off since early this morning and the extent of the damage can only be guessed from meager reports which are coming in slowly.

PASS UP TRADING STAMPS.

Michigan City Merchants Sign Agreement Not to Use Them.

Michigan City, Ind., March 21.—Warfare inaugurated this week by merchants on the trading stamp business, resulted in the signing of an agreement today by every merchant in the city not to deal in stamps or in any similar trading device. A trading stamp company invaded the city last month and sold contracts to five merchants, but, according to the agreement signed today, the five merchants are to withdraw from their contract and if sued they will be backed financially for any loss they may sustain in litigation.

HOLD PICTURE NOT IMMORAL.

Jury in Chicago Court Exonerates "September Morn."

Chicago, March 21.—A jury in the municipal court today, after hearing opinions about and inspecting "September Morn," a painting by Paul Shabas, decided the picture was not immoral and was not unfit to be publicly displayed in Chicago. The picture represents a nude figure of a girl bathing outdoors. A question raised in court while experts were testifying was, "What is the girl thinking about?"

The jury concluded that the thoughts of the girl were not immodest. Numerous witnesses had taken opposing views as to the propriety of the painting's public appearance.

CLERK IS BANKRUPT.

Aaron Cohan, a clerk in a dry goods store at Kendallville, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the local federal court today, scheduling liabilities at $3,562, and assets which he claims exempt at $342.50. He was represented by Attorneys Prickett and Carver, of Kendallville.

AUSTRIA PREPARES ULTIMATUM.

Vienna, Austria, March 21.—The Austro-Hungarian government is preparing an ultimatum to Montenegro, according to an unofficial statement today. The ultimatum was decided upon, it is said, owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the reply to the Austrian remonstrances regarding Scutari.

Paris is said to have 85,000 men and women criminals.

Mr. McFerran was born and reared in Fort Wayne and in his early years worked in the local Pennsylvania offices. Mrs. Thomas W. Risk, aged thirty-four years, died late Thursday afternoon at St. Rochus' hospital, after an illness of eighteen months from tuberculosis. About a year ago Mrs. Risk went with her husband to Arizona in the hope of regaining her health, but returned in December unimproved.

Mrs. Risk was born at Bremen, Ohio, and was married to Mr. Risk, at Payne, in 1903. They came to Fort Wayne to reside four years ago.

Funeral services Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Chalfant, Manlove & Bloom undertaking parlors.

Chicago, March 21.—Switchmen and switch tenders of the Chicago district today drew up a telegram asking the federal government to intervene under the Erdman act to arbitrate their dispute with the nineteen railroads involved. BARTHOU ACCEPTS TRUST.

Paris, March 21.—Jean Barthou, minister of justice in the retiring French cabinet, today accepted the president's invitation to head the new cabinet. He called on President Poincare at the palace of the Elysee this morning and informed him that as the result of inquiries he was sure of an ample majority to support him in the chamber of deputies and also in the senate, at least until the electoral reform bill comes up again for discussion.

It was the lack of support for this measure which brought about the fall of the Briand cabinet.

DEACON WHITE DIED "BROKE."

Famous Plunger Made and Lost Fortunes in "the Street."

New York, March 21.—Stephen Van Culen White, known as "Deacon" White, who won and lost several fortunes in stock market speculation, died penniless. This was stated by relatives yesterday, who declared that no application for the appointment of an administrator will be made for the reason that there is nothing to administer.

"Deacon" White's most noted "plunge" in the market was a purchase of 10,000,000 bushels of corn in 1891. The bottom fell out of the market before he had a chance to dispose of his holdings and his third fortune was swept away. He died in January at the age of 81 years.

About three miles from town he was thrown from his wheel and the posse was following so close he took to the timber and escaped. Telephone alarms were sent out in all directions but no results have been reported. Numerous robberies have recently occurred in this neighborhood.

Uncle Dud Gossips About the Weird Customs on the Banks of the Big Ditch.

A PANAMA CUPID AND PSYCHE, SHOWING THE NATIONAL COSTUMES THAT ARE EVERYWHERE IN EVIDENCE.

BY UNCLE DUD.

Bas Obispo, Canal Zone.

The largest denomination used in Panamanian currency is one silver dollar, and it is worth only fifty cents in United States money, although it contains a little more silver than the American coin.

All our money is spoken of as "gold" in these parts and the same flattering distinction applies equally to our silver, nickel and copper coins as well as to our bills.

All American employes are paid in gold and are termed "gold employes." The negroes and other actual laborers are paid in the silver of the republic and are called "silver employes." This classification forms a barrier beyond which no silver employe may trespass.

The tourist's first impression is one of amazement when, having negotiated a trifling purchase from a local merchant and proffered a five-dollar bill in payment, he receives nine silver dollars and some quarters and dimes in change, nearly three-quarters of a pound of "spiggetty" cash.

Whiskers grow twice as rapidly in this climate as in our northern states. An ordinary beard requiring three scrapes a week in Ohio, California or New York state, must suffer daily amputation in Panama if the owner holds his personal appearance in due regard.

Everything runs to foliage here, including the male tourist.

Since the fad has been started for polished pebble souvenirs from Culebra cut there need be little apprehension of serious trouble from slides at this point, as the tourists will remove the bulk of such intrusive material in their mad quest for scarf pins, cuff buttons, charms, hatpins and the like. As a matter of fact, these stones take a beautiful polish and the coloring in many is strikingly unique.

* * *

Vehicles pass each other on the left side on the streets of Colon, Cristobal, Panama and Ancon instead of on the right as in the states.

Panama hats are not manufactured in Panama, but the gullible tourist falls for the name and pays four prices for an inferior lid made in Colombia and Ecuador. Of course it's nice to swell up and tell your friends in Oshkosh that you bought your Panama in Panama and show the price mark inside—$60 "spig." Great stuff! But you can buy a better one in Chicago for the same money.

* * *

They have melon trees down here—"The Papaya Palm." It bears a large green, smooth-skinned fruit with a rind like a watermelon, only much thinner. The meat is of a rich yellow color and very like that of a cantaloupe in flavor and texture.

* * *

The women of Panama wear what is universally recognized as the national costume of the isthmus. It is very low in the neck and the skirt is full, flowing and flounced. A little masculine hat and elaborate hair decorations complete the costume.

It is not at all unusual to see otherwise bare feet ensconced in French-heeled slippers among the lower classes.

The houses of the whites are very completely and carefully screened. Not so much as a safeguard against the now almost extinct mosquito as to prevent the entrance of scorpions and tarantulas. We have encountered one of the former in our sleeping apartment thus far and are pleased to report that, after a desperate conflict, the venomous creature was annihilated.

SAYS MADERO WAS SLAIN IN PALACE

Mexican Editor Declares President Was Shot; Suarez Throttled.

STREET FIGHT RUSE

San Francisco, Cal., March 21.—Col. Manuel Blanche Alcalde, publisher of the New Era, a Mexico City newspaper generally regarded as the mouthpiece of the late President Madero's administration, arrived here yesterday.

Col. Alcalde asserts he "can prove" Madero was shot to death and that Vice President Suarez was strangled in the national palace on the night of Feb. 23 and their bodies taken to the prison in an automobile.

"The reported assault by the guards," said Alcalde, "was merely a farcial ruse and a part of the plot. If the automobile was fired upon the guards were only pouring lead into the dead bodies of the president and vice president, who were murdered in the palace hours before."

Intimate Friend of Madero.

Col. Alcalde described himself as an intimate friend of Madero. His mission in this country, he said, would be to expose the plot which brought about the Diaz uprising and the alleged assassination of Madero and Suarez.

Alcalde was accompanied by his wife, two small children and his brother, Joaquin, an army captain. Alcalde fled from Mexico City Feb. 23, taking an obscure route to Salina Cruz. The party disguised themselves as peasants. On reaching the west coast the party remained for twelve days in seclusion, believing they would be killed if discovered by agents of the new government. They chartered a barge to reach Acapulco, upon which they took passage with other refugees.

Slain Before Leaving Palace.

He asserted the news of Madero's fate was known in Washington before the hour named in the official version as the time of the alleged attempt to rescue him.

"As a matter of fact," said he, "President Madero and Vice President Suarez were killed between 8 and 9:30 o'clock on the night of Feb. 22. The president was shot from behind and the powder burned his neck. Suarez was choked to death. His secretary, Fernandez de la Reguera, saw the body two days later and there were finger marks on the throat. One eye had been forced from its socket and the tongue protruded. Gen. Ascarade was in command of the guard that night. I was told by another officer of the guard that it was he who slew Madero and Suarez."

Says Wilson Betrayed Him.

Bitter in his criticism of Ambassador Wilson, Col. Alcalde declared the American diplomat had declined to intercede to save him from arrest and death.

"I had protected fifteen American families in my school, the Internado Nacional," said he, "feeding and housing them during all the fighting from Feb. 9 to 18. After the Huerta coup, fearing arrest and execution, I went to the ambassador and appealed for aid. He told me at first he could do nothing. Finally he asked me to write my name on a card, with that of my brother.

Told of Arrest Order.

"Soon afterward a friend of mine rushed to me with the information that the American ambassador had given a card on which were the names of my brother and myself to Secretary of the Interior Granados, and the latter had immediately issued orders for our arrest. This friend had overheard part of a conversation between the ambassador and Granados, in which he said the ambassador had said that my brother and I were in fear of arrest. Granados replied that we had escaped his attention, but he would attend to our cases at once, and the order of arrest was issued."

Americans Flee Cananea.

Douglas, Ariz., March 21.—American women and children from the mining settlement at Cananea, Sonora, are being rushed to the border in automobiles. Several hundred Yaquis, led by Gen. Obregon, chief of the insurgent state troops, are reported marching on the town, garrisoned by 350 federals. Col. Moreno, federal commander at Cananea, expects Gen. Obregon's attack in the morning.

Antonio Rojas, a Chihuahua state rebel general, with 150 men, is reported to have looted Moctezuma, Sonora, after American residents fled. Sonora state insurgents sent against him have not reached there.

ARTISTS LOOKED FOR LITTLE BOY

"Most Beautiful Lad" Found, Says He "Can Lick the Whole Gang."

WANTED AS A MODEL

INFORMATION WANTED—Address of small boy known as "Curly Haired Angel!" in neighborhood 78th st. and East river. Dewing Woodward, 162 E. 19th st.

New York, March 21.—With this personal from the papers, a reporter called on Miss Dewing Woodward, artist, in her Nineteenth street studio and asked her who the "curly-haired angel" was.

"He is the most beautiful little boy in America, with red-gold hair and an angel's face," she explained. "I picked him up on the street several weeks ago and made a sketch of him. If I can find him again I will never let him go. I will take him to my studio in the Catskills this summer and perhaps to Paris next winter. He is a dream. He haunts me."

Armed with a sketch that the artist hastily drew from memory, the reporter went angel hunting on the upper east side. The trail finally led to public school No. 158, at East Seventy-seventh street and Avenue A. Approaching the janitor the reporter asked if any curly-haired angels attended this school.

"If they do," replied the janitor, "they've all gone home. There's some little divils inside, though, that have been kept after school for raising Cain."

The reporter wandered into grade No. 4 A, which is ruled by Miss Katherine McNulty.

"Do you keep curly-haired angels here?" inquired the reporter politely.

"Oh!" exclaimed Miss McNulty, "another artist, I presume! There's been a score of painter folks here today, bent on turning the head of little Daniel Ward O'Connell, though he is the prettiest looking boy in New York, if I do say it myself. Danny, come here."

A sturdy little chap with red hair and clear blue eyes got up from his desk and stepped forward.

"Do they call you the Curly-Haired Angel?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, sir."

"Don't the other boys kid you about it?"

"Nix. I can smear the whole gang, see?" and Daniel stuck out his under jaw.

Anyhow, 12-year-old Daniel Ward O'Connell, who lives at 428 East Seventy-seventh street, may have a summer in the Catskills and a winter in Paris, for Miss Woodward now may have his address. But she may have to increase her offer, for a dozen rival artists were waiting outside public school No. 158, all afraid that some other artist or a barber would get hold of Daniel first.

The RURODE DRY GOODS CO.

Antics of Militant Suffragets Do More Harm Than Good, Says Tilted Leader.

MRS. PHILIP SNOWDEN.

San Francisco, Cal., March 20.—"It is not the representative suffragists of England who are committing the deplorable acts of violence in furtherance of their campaign. It is a small, a very small, coterie of militant suffragists led by the Pankhurst faction."

This is the opinion of Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the labor member of parliament for Blackburn, Lancashire, and herself vice president of the National Union of Women's Suffrage societies.

And she wants to impress this view on the American public.

"Militant tactics, such as those followed by the Pankhurst adherents," continued Mrs. Snowden, "will never gain any advance for the cause of equal suffrage. Not only is the attitude of these people delaying the inevitable arrival of equal suffrage in England, but it has far-reaching effects in this country.

"During my trip across the continent to this coast I delivered lectures in many towns and I found the tactics—or shall we call them antics—of the militant suffragists in England used as an excuse by the men for opposing suffrage for women in this country.

"It is unfair to the real equal suffrage movement. As a matter of fact I think I do not exaggerate when I say that not more than 100 women in England are actively engaged in carrying out violence.

"At one time there were at least 10,000 women who belonged to the Pankhurst faction. But they have been dropping out rapidly, disgusted by the methods followed, until now all the fuss is being made by just a very few violent fanatics.

"Voting in England is not by any means the same as in this country. Here one man has one vote, and he votes because he is a properly registered citizen of the United States. In England there are several conditions giving the right to vote. Men holding property in different places have a vote in each place. Then there is the 'lodger's right' to vote. If a man pays so much for his room and has a latchkey, he is allowed to vote.

"Altogether, it is quite a complicated matter. At present the men of England are asking for suffrage on the same basis as in this country. With this we are entirely unconcerned. What we want is the right to vote under the same conditions as the men. If the present conditions remain, then we want to vote under them; if it comes to one man one vote, then we want one woman one vote."

Mrs. Snowden is one of the best-known of the lecturers of the national union. She has spoken during the last few years in every town in England of any consequence, and averages some 200 lectures a year. She has lectured extensively throughout the east, and has made several trips to this side of the Atlantic for the purpose.

A cistern extends under the lockup from the quarters of the village fire department in the same building. One of the tramps thrust a lighted paper into the gas-filled well to ascertain the depth of the water.

The explosion broke dozens of panes of glass and rendered the structure useless. The tramps were slightly burned.

THE CUBIST

All Cubist art is on the square,
In Cubist circles everywhere
They recognize no curves at all,
And as for snakes that writhe and crawl,
The cubist simply shows such things
As cubes connected up with strings!

A Cubist portrait isn't true
To what your mirror shows to you;
But do not clamor "get the hook!"
It shows you as you OUGHT to look
With all your gems and bangs and bangles
If you were made of cubes and angles.
It isn't like you? Np, it aint,
But that's the way the Cubists paint.

Yet let this make some folks elate
The Cubist claims all lines are straight,
So crooked people here and there,
Should have the Cubist paint them square
So they can look with kindling eye
And say, "I'm straight as any die."

I think the Cubist is a Mutt
A lunatic with cubic nut,
Who studied plane geometry
Till naught but angles he could see
And when the Cubist work you view
You'll think hes pretty dippy too!

AS GOOD AS IT LOOKS.

Yes, and even better. Even though the artist made this picture from the suite itself, it can in no manner portray the real desirability of the entire outfit. THE SPRING is of diamond weave of heaviest spring wire, the ends of which are fastened to the frame by a patent process against which service has no effect whatever. You get all the qualities which you, yourself positively know are essential to a good durable bed room outfit.

AVOID THE ANNUAL SPRING RUSH.

We didn't have any back numbers left over to have a spring sale. There's a reason. Therefore we are making some early seasonable low priced offers on our new spring stock, so that those housewives who are wise may have an excellent opportunity to avoid the rush of the home renewal season and at the same time get whatever up-to-date furnishings they may need later on, in the 1913 styles.

OUTFIT OFFERS NEW TO FORT WAYNE.

At this time our outfit offers stand out so distinctive and exclusive, that they cannot help but be admired by those to whom they were formerly unknown. The combining of several pieces to completely furnish one room was never known in this city until Hadley's came to town. That it made an instant hit is best evidenced by the fact that we continue to make each offer far surpass anything of like kind we ever offered before.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION.

The exact picture best describes the sturdiness of the table. The pedestal is solid, the top thick and broad and fitted with a perfection lock. The pedestal terminates in four heavy, hand-carved claw feet. The table is solid oak throughout and finished in a piano polish golden finish. The table is always the commanding piece in your dining room. This one will attract more than ordinary attention.

THE CHAIRS are heavy legged with strong cross bars and built in the box seat construction style, the strongest known. They have genuine leather seats, and slightly reclining backs supported by broad, well designed panels.

THE COMPLETE DINNER SET will accommodate a large family or as many guests as you may get around the table. It is not the cheap, gaudy china which is so familiar in bargain sales; but came from the best pottery in America and is decorated in a simple, conventional design that lends the desired elegant simplicity to your table.

CHANGE METHODS IN WATER WORKS

New Books and Different Plan for Rendering Accounts.

NOTES OF CITY HALL

Under a new system proposed for keeping the accounts in the water works department of the city hall, eight instead of thirty-two ledgers are to be kept and the bills rendered in cubic feet measurement instead of in gallons.

Mayor Jesse Grice, members of the board of public works, City Attorney Harry G. Hogan, Controller W. S. Cutshall and Councilmen John Bauer, Herman Strodel and Frank Sarver, members of the water works committee, spent most of the forenoon studying the new system of books.

It is a loose leaf system of the variety that is being adopted in most big business institutions and it requires less labor and consequently less time.

Meters measure the water to consumers by the cubic feet and this is computed in gallons when the bills are rendered. Seven and a half gallons are equivalent to one cubic foot and the bills will show how many feet have been consumed and give the consumer the basis for computation so he or she can sit down quietly at home and find out how many gallons have passed through the meter.

Board of Works Routine.

At the meeting of the board of public works last night the assessment roll for the opening of Second street was confirmed as was the one for opening Howell street.

Under a petition for a sewer in the alley between Columbia and Edgewater avenue from Morton to Walton boulevard plans were ordered.

Some of the property owners on St. Mary's avenue, which is to be paved from Breck street to Archer avenue, asked that the street be made forty feet wide instead of thirty feet. Other owners objected and the board instructed the former element to bring in a petition next Thursday evening, showing just how many people affected are in favor of the widening.

A petition asking that the sidewalks on both sides of Sinclair street, which have been ordered from Schilling street to Runnion avenue, be continued to the G. R. & I. tracks was received.

The assessment roll for the Calhoun street walks, from Dock street to the Pennsylvania railroad, was finally approved, the contractor posting $1,000 as surety that the changes insisted upon by the board will be made just as quickly as the weather will permit.

Petitions to pave Hayden street from Hanna street to Anthony boulevard, and South Calhoun street.

Plans were ordered for sidewalks on the south side of Oak street, from Ohio to Division street.

Will Pay An Inspector.

Seventeen of the employing plumbers of the city want a plumbing inspector as an assistant in the building department and say they will pay a license fee of $50 instead of $5 a year if the appointment is made. The matter will probably go to the city council.

Notes of City Hall.

At a conference yesterday the heating plant proposition was discussed with the board of public works but no action was taken.

Three hundred tons of six-inch pipe and 120 tons of twelve-inch water pipe have been purchased by the board of works from the United States Cast Iron Pipe company, of Chicago, at its bid of $24.55 per ton. Five other companies entered proposals. The board has the right to increase the order fifty per cent before July 1st, of this year.

Brief Bits of Indiana News.

SILVER LAKE--Roy Pottenger, the 16-year-old boy who left the home of his parents, south of here, Wednesday of last week, has not been found and there is no trace of him.

HUNTINGTON--Huntington attorneys have formed a bar association with a membership of twenty-five. C. W. Watkins is president, A. H. Sapp, vice president, and C. K. Lucas, secretary-treasurer.

RICHMOND--Walter Wallace, 18, probably will die as a result of blood-poisoning from a gunshot wound, accidentally inflicted by a companion. Wallace and several other boys were firing a revolver Sunday. One of the shots struck Wallace above the knee.

VINCENNES--Cyrus Deem, 45, at one time a prosperous farmer, committed suicide yesterday, drinking carbolic acid. Moving to town and seeing his fortune dwindle caused despondency. He leaves a widow and five children.

SULLIVAN--Frank Reed, an ex-convict, who was awaiting trial here on a charge of burglary, slipped into a side room while he, with six other prisoners, was being transferred upstairs for the night, and after the sheriff and the jail attendants had retired for the night he left the jail. His disappearance did not become known until morning.

TIPTON--George Tubbs has filed a suit for damages in the Tipton circuit court against the Indiana Union Traction company and the Union Traction Company of Indiana, in which he asks $5,000. He alleges that his wife, Viola Tubbs, of Elwood, entered the toilet room of the company here and was shocked by an exposed wire so that she has become an invalid for life. She already had a suit against the company for $10,000 for personal injuries.

SHELBYVILLE--A jury composed of eleven men was chosen to hear the evidence and decide the case brought in the Shelby circuit court by Dr. W. W. Tindall and his wife, Mrs. Carrie Tindall, against John Tucker. The Tindalls own a farm which is rented by Tucker. There was some trouble between them and the owners asked that the defendant leave the farm. He refused. The jury of eleven men was selected after several had been examined. Later it was decided to leave the evidence to the judge and the jury was discharged.

STANDPAT DAY IS GONE, SAYS BRYAN

Progressive Democracy Has Made a Tremendous Advance.

TALK AT DES MOINES

Des Moines, Iowa, March 21.—"Standpatism is dead," declared William J. Bryan, secretary of state, before the annual banquet of the Jefferson club last night. The statement came early in his speech, and the orator dwelt long upon the fact that he believed the highest accomplishment of the present administration would be the restoration of what he termed "the spirit of the forefathers" to the institutions of the United States.

"You cannot cross the United States," declared Mr. Bryan, "without passing through a state which is governed by a progressive democrat. Illinois has just placed one in office. Ohio elected a progressive at the last election, as did Nebraska. Kansas and Missouri, and you came very near to filling out this list of western states by electing one here in Iowa. Just a day or two before I left Washington a new United States senator arrived. He was a progressive democrat from New Hampshire. All the members of the cabinet are progressive democrats and the leader in the senate is John W. Kern, for whom 6,000,000 progressive democrats cast their vote for vice president a short time ago. More than this, the senate of the United States has been made progressive and the new rules of that body enable the majority of the party to control."

Secretary Bryan exhorted the office seekers to remember that every platform of the party for the last twenty years had placed principles before office holding, but the fact which appalled him was that he was not able to appoint all of his friends to office.

Secretary Bryan also said he had discovered that one of the duties he would be able to perform while secretary of state was the announcement to the people of the ratification of the direct election of senators, "a plank I put in my platform twenty-three years ago."

"This alone is worth the acceptance of the office," he ended.

TEACHER MAY PLEAD GUILTY

Doris Underwood is Said to Be Contemplating Such Action.

IN SHOOTING CASE

Muncie, Ind., March 21.—Prosecutor Mann and his deputy, Gene Williams, are hearing persistent rumors that Miss Doris Underwood, the Hartford City school teacher, who is charged with assault and battery with intent to murder Otis Fisher, a young drug clerk of this city, is willing to enter a plea of guilty to the charge providing the court will give her a suspended sentence.

The prosecutor's office, it is said, will object to this procedure and will try to bring about a conviction of Miss Underwood. The state takes these rumors as a sign of losing faith on the part of the defendant.

Grand Jury to Investigate.

The grand jury will be called in April and it is expected that the inquisitorial body will go over the evidence in the Underwood case and return some sort of an indictment if the evidence warrants. Miss Underwood is now charged with assault and battery with intent to commit murder and it is believed a charge of the same kind will be returned by the grand jury.

No time has as yet been set for the arraignment of Miss Underwood. She probably will not be called upon to make her plea until late in the April term. In case she pleads not guilty, her trial will then be rushed.

INTEREST IN AUTO SHOW.

Big Crowds Attend Exhibition and Witness Demonstrations.

Big crowds are flocking to Princess rink afternoon and evening to attend the automobile show, which will continue until Saturday night. Unusual interest has been manifested in the exhibition, as many new and novel features are among the offerings of the dealers for the trade during 1913. This promises to be one of the greatest years in the history of motordom, and apparently everybody is interested, whether they intend purchasing a car or whether they are only interested in learning about the advancement made in the industry during the last year.

Thursday night was featured by a number of practical demonstrations of autos and auto accessories. Non-puncture tires held the center of the stage most of the evening and the dealers who handle this line, pleasingly entertained the spectators with the practical value of using their wares.

A number of cars not on the floor during the first two days of the show are being inspected by visitors today.

LAW AFTER CLAIRVOYANTS.

Effort Made In Kansas City to Pass Sweeping Ordinance.

CLEANS THE HAIR AND MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL--25 CENT "DANDERINE"

In a few moments your hair looks soft, fluffy, lustrous and abundant—No falling hair or Dandruff.

Surely try a little "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil.—In a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair, and lots of it, if you will just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.—Adv.

WOULD ENFORCE A "LIVING" PAY

Unique Idea Embraced in Measure Introduced in Wisconsin.

MAHON TELLS OF IT

(By Kenneth W. Payne.)

Madison, Wis., March 21.—"It's just another part of the 'Wisconsin idea'—that's all. It's not a haphazard, one-man bill, conceived without perspective and intended only to bring a lot of political glory and ward-boss smiles. Behind it is not just my thought—indeed most of it is inspired by the thought of many of those great-minded American men of today who are trying to bring about a really scientific distribution of the means of living. Which means nothing less than life itself!"

THOMAS MAHON.

This is what young Thomas Mahon, "the crippled newsboy legislator," said to me when I went to ask him of the minimum wage bill he introduced into the Wisconsin state assembly—a bill which economists, far and near, declare marks an absolute revolution, not only in American, but in world labor legislation.

To me the great surprise about Mahon was that he does not consider his bill as the superlative thing in Wisconsin legislation—to him it is just a component part of the whole state "idea," making the government the servant and not the boss of the people.

"If I had drawn this bill myself," he said, "I would be sure it would be imperfect. So you see I am really saving my pride, not hurting it, in declaring that I am not its sole sponsor.

"The bill is really the result of some of the best thinkers in this and other states. It embodies the work of such men as Prof. John Commons of the University of Wisconsin and Dr. Charles McCarthy of the legislative reference library. It is in line with the most modern of economic teaching and is based upon the experience of whole states and nations! For this reason I am pretty sure it will be good enough to serve as a model for every state in the union.

"Of course, though, the bill is not ideal! You see, I want a bill that will provide a living wage for all workers—not just for women and minors, but for everyone! And I want this wage scientifically fixed and enforced by a state industrial commission!

"This we expect to do here as soon as we are able to make this new bill an operative law.

"Other states, before they frame such a bill as ours, will have first to establish an industrial commission, similar to the one provided for in my bill which passed the legislature here in 1911. This commission was given power to demand better working conditions in whatever trade it would find them unsatisfactory. And it was given a sister power to enforce its demands. The commission itself combines two functions—that of investigation and that of judicial determination. When it was established it opened the revolution in American labor legislation. The minimum wage law which I now propose follows it as just the natural step in the fighting out of our industrial troubles.

"This new bill provides for a living wage for women and minors only because these are the weaker members of the community and should be protected first. The bill provides that whenever a female employe shall complain that her wage is not sufficient to maintain her standard of living, a wage board shall be formed, two members being appointed by the employer, two by the employe and one by the industrial commission. This board is to make necessary investigations both as to working conditions and as to living conditions and to report to the commission what in its judgment is a living wage for that class of employment. The living wage for minors is determined by the industrial commission itself upon proper investigation.

"The term 'living wage' is defined in the bill to mean compensation for labor sufficient to enable the employe receiving it to maintain himself or herself under conditions consistent with his or her welfare.

"The bill gives the industrial commission power to put this living wage into full force by order issuing directly from the commission itself. This is the strongest feature of the act.

"The minimum wage law in Massachusetts gives the commission power only to recommend that a certain wage be recognized as a minimum wage, but there is nothing other than the wide publicity given these recommendations which might compel the avaricious employer to award a fair wage. And our plan is more effective than the Australian plan because our commission is bigger and must needs bring broader viewpoint to bear on the issue."

Mahon began life as a crippled newsboy, selling papers on the streets of Milwaukee. All his life he has hobbled about on two crutches, never using his legs even to aid him in walking. But in spite of this misfortune he earned his way through high school, Wisconsin university and finally the law school, coming to classes every day in a wheel chair. He sold tea and clerked at the capitol to pay his tuition.

It may seem that young "Tom" Mahon has done quite a bit already, but he says he has just begun his work—before he is finished he wants to have accomplished for all workers that they receive complete justice. "And complete justice for the worker is so big that few realize as yet even what it means!"

WHO'S WHO IN WILSON'S CABINET.

WILLIAM G. M'ADOO.

"TELEGRAPH POLES WOULD LOOK TALLER IF WE DIDN'T HAVE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY WM. G. M'ADOO TO LOOK AT.

BY J. CAMPBELL CORY.

Washington, D. C., March 21.—He's a tall young person of 49 more or less tumultuous summers, dark and deep-eyed and creased with the wrinkles that come of far-reaching thought, great responsibilities and facile smiles.

Telegraph poles would seem taller if we did not have Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo to look at. Without an ounce of excess tissue to cumber his angular, double jointed frame work, he seems to exceed the six feet two inches to which uncommon altitude he coyly makes acknowledgment.

Born in Marietta, Ga., and raised in Tennessee, McAdoo as a young man read law while assistant clerk of the United States court at Chattanooga and later practiced in that city and in Knoxville. But in him was a genius for building, producing, surmounting of physical obstacles upon unheard of planes and for this ever-present yearning he found no outlet within the confines of the musty courts and pedantic inactivities of the bar. Water seeks its level and a human destiny must follow the path that is preordained, and so it was, but in the fulfillment of the mandate of inscrutable fate, that McAdoo became president of the Knoxville Street Railway company and began to try out his wings as a promoter of great undertakings.

Whether or not the Pennsylvania railroad now controls the Hudson tunnels, it is quite certain that William G. McAdoo promoted and built them and did it in the face of all the impediments that the Morgan-Rockefeller interests could heap before him—did it, without aid or encouragement from the Pennsylvania company and caused the entire world to lightly applaud.

With the prestige of this remarkable achievement dangling from his belt, the astute young Georgian sauntered fearlessly into Wall street, snapped his fingers in the face of the horrified octopus and smilingly defied him. In behalf of his further operations he threatened to make a tour of the entire nation and offer to the common people an opportunity to back his already startling successful career with their perfectly good dollars, to the entire exclusion of Wall street philanthropy. Morgan looked him over. So did Shonts, Schiff, Belmont, Rockefeller, et al., and then the gang went into extraordinary executive session, with the result that McAdoo sauntered back uptown with a unique and far-reaching entre to the gilded center o fWall street activities carefully tucked away in his inside pocket.

Don't get the erroneous hunch from the foregoing that our new secretary of the treasury connived with the amiable old gentlemen of Dollardom. Not so. He simply rendered a perfectly lucid and unmistakable description of the identical location upon the national map where they get off, and they seem to have taken it for granted that McAdoo knows pretty nearly where that particular spot is at. Hence, while frankly and openly an avowed and proved opponent of the system, the slender young person who now has the treasury portfolio in his suitcase has a way of making the "System" behave.

But here is another.

While McCoombs was Woodrow Wilson's campaign manager, McAdoo, as assistant manager, really did the yeoman service because of his partner's inopportune and serious illness. His preconvention work was of the same brand as that which carried the discouraging Hudson tunnel project to successful completion.

KELLY GETS ENDORSEMENT.

Ex-County Recorder Wants Place on Public Utilities Commission.

A petition bearing 2,000 signatures and addressed to Governor Ralston endorses and asks for the appointment of Robert E. Kelly, ex-county recorder of Allen county, as a member of the public utilities commission, to be organized in May. If reports are authentic, Mr. Kelly's chances to land the appointment are very favorable.

The movement for Mr. Kelly's appointment started among the railroad men of Fort Wayne, with whom he was associated for more than thirty years as an engineer. The petition contains the names of leading business, professional and laboring men of Allen county.

It is said that Mr. Kelly's boom is not confined alone to Fort Wayne, and that his candidacy for the appointment has found favor among the voters at Terre Haute, Muncie, Kokomo, Lafayette and numerous other cities in the central and northern part of the state.

WOMEN DESCRIBE THEIR IDEAL MAN

Seventy Write Letters Telling Fond Fancies of Their Hearts

IN SUNDAY SCHOOL

Chicago, March 21.—The ideal man need not be intelligent.

Seventy young women, between the ages of 17 and 20 years, opened the most secret corners of their hearts and exposed to view their fondest fancy, the ideal man. The girls, all of whom are members of the Dorcas Sunday school class of the Fullerton Avenue Presbyterian church, wrote letters describing their ideal at the request of the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Hugh T. Kerr. Not a single one of the letters, as read at the meeting of the class, demanded, or appeared to expect, intelligence.

"The ideal man must have just matter-of-fact goodness," was the general sentiment found in every letter.

And every letter went on to complain: "But there is no such man living. There is no ideal man."

Wealth Not in Demand.

The girls who compose the Dorcas class are for the most part working girls, yet none of them listed wealth as a requisite of the ideal. Only six asked for an attractive appearance. Two suggested education as a factor in the making of the ideal husband.

All of the letters breathed the spirit of pessimism and disappointment. The five components of the ideal that were common to every contribution were given in every case with the admission: "I know that no such man ever can be found."

Every girl demanded the following: Reverence, or the holding of something holy; chivalry, not of the night errant variety, but rather the willingness to aid the weak; sincerity; affection that is not based on selfish desires; a belief in a single standard of morals for men and women.

Good Nature a Requisite.

With only a few exceptions the use of liquor was tabooed, while there was almost an equal division of sentiment on the use of tobacco. Good nature was demanded by only ten. Bravery was asked by twenty-two. Seven admitted that they desired their husbands to be dressed well. Nine wished for frugal husbands who could save money.

Strange to say, not a letter had any reference to staying out late nights or to gambling.

"The man who is my ideal," wrote one of the girls, "is one who has respect for womanhood. He must not be a man who pretends to admire the frivolous, make-believe girls. If all men were like my ideal all girls would be themselves and would not be silly, flittering, simpering fools. Girls become what men seem to demand."

Should Smile a Lot.

"My ideal man must appreciate a joke," wrote another, "and I should prefer that he smiled an awful lot."

"My ideal must be kind to animals," wrote a 17-year-old girl, "and fight any man who is cruel to them."

"The remarkable nature of the discussion," Dr. Kerr said in comment, "is that the girls all assumed a calm, almost calculating attitude. They were not carried away by any craving for the spectacular. I am going to continue such discussions. Within a couple of weeks we shall take up the question of the ideal woman from the woman's viewpoint."

Don't Look Old Before Your Time

WOMAN'S delicate system requires more than ordinary care and attention—more care and attention than it is given by the average woman.

Neglect it and ills soon creep in, and the look of old age, sometimes quickly, sometimes gradually follows.

That backache, so common among women, brings with it the sunken chest, the headache, tired muscles, crow's-feet, and soon the youthful body is no more youthful in appearance—and all because of lack of attention.

There is no reason why you should be so unfortunate, when you have at your disposal a remedy such as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—recommended for over 40 years as a remedy for ailments peculiar to women. We have thousands upon thousands of testimonials on file—the accumulation of 40 years—testifying to its effectiveness. Neither narcotics nor alcohol are to be found in this famous prescription. Regulates irregularities. Corrects displacements. Overcomes painful periods. Tones up nerves. Brings about perfect health. Sold by dealers in medicines, in liquid or tablet form.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers heats of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

Nine-Months-Old Boy Bids Fair to Be Giant.

London, March 21. Nottinghamshire boasts an infant Hercules. This is the 9-months-old son of James Whittaker, the landlord of the Duke of Clarence inn at Mapperley, who already weighs 56 pounds and can lift a ten-pound weight.

The remarkable physical development of this tiny "strong man" may be gathered from this list of his measurements:

Thingh, 18 inches; knee, 15 inches; chest, 26 inches; calf, 9 inches.

This infant Hercules is not yet able to walk, but when supported he can swing five-pound weights with the utmost ease.

At a recent local show he won the first prize without difficulty.

It is interesting to note while their son bids fair to be a giant, Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker are both of average stature.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

PUSHING PLANS FOR NEW CITY HALL

Garrett City Council Employs Elkhart Architects for the $23,000 Municipal Edifice.

Garrett, Ind., March 21.—The city council, at its regular meeting this week, authorized the employment of the Elmwood firm of architects at Elkhart to draw the plans for the new city hall building, which will be erected this year on the city's property at the northwest corner of Randolph and Keyser streets. It is probable the architects will have the blue prints ready to submit to the council at the next regular meeting, on Tuesday night of next week. Then the council will advertise for bids for the construction of the building. It is believed the contracts can be let some time during the latter part of April.

The architects estimate that the city hall will cost $23,000, aside from the plumbing, heating and electric wiring. It will be built of brick and will be 50x125 feet in dimensions, running the full length of the lots. It will be two stories in height, with a basement.

The basement will contain the furnace and public comfort stations. On the first floor will be offices for the city clerk and collector, mayor, treasurer, superintendent of the water and light plant, marshal, probably offices for the township trustee and assessor, a ladies' waiting room and jail. On the second floor will be the council chamber and public assembly hall. The fire department will occupy the rear of the building, having both the first and second floors.

The council has decided to devote the entire building to public business purposes and it is believed the work can be done and the building paid for without raising the tax levy.

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY.

Albion, Ind., March 21.—After deliberating for about one hour, the jury in the grand larceny case of the state against William Bowles, of this city, returned a verdict of not guilty in the Albion circuit court. The evidence adduced was purely circumstantial.

FIVE ROOM SCHOOL EDIFICE IN MAUMEE

Plans for the Building in the Hands of Architect—Completed Before the Fall Term.

Woodburn, Ind., March 21.—It is now definitely settled and officially announced that Maumee township will come to the full realization of that long felt need of a commissioned high school within the township has been accepted by the trustee and advisory board and is now on file in the office of Trustee Brenneke.

Immediately after the accepting of the petition asking for a graded and high school for the township, the board proceeded to secure plans for the new building. Different buildings were inspected, and finally a plan after the style of the school building at Auburn was decided upon.

The building will be five- room, a trustee's office with two rooms in the basement. The first floor will be so arranged in partitions that one large assembly room can be made. It is the purpose to have this public building modern in every way, and this being possible, this township can rightfully feel proud and even hostful over its school building.

The plans for the building are now in the hands of the architect, and when completed, perhaps within ten days, and after other arrangements have been made, bids will be advertised for the construction work on the building. It is hoped that the new school building will be ready for occupancy by fall.

A very pretty wedding of the week took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Singer Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Miss Grace, was united in marriage to Daniel R. Battenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Battenberg, residing near here. The ring ceremony was used and Rev. C. M. Hollipeter, pastor of the M. E. church, was the officiating clergyman. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lila, and the groom by Ralph Freidline. The bride was beautifully gowned in white chiffon, over white satin, trimmed in pearl trimming with baby Irish lace and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The bride's sister wore a pale blue silk with an over-dress of beaded net, trimmed in pink and blue rose buds and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The rooms were charmingly decorated for the occasion in pink and white roses and Easter lilies. Immediately after the ceremony a five course supper was served to the forty guests present by Caterer Longfield, of Fort Wayne. For traveling dress the bride wore a tailored suit of mixed gray with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Battenberg left in the evening for Chicago and will later visit in Indianapolis for an indefinite period. Both bride and groom come from the best families in this vicinity and are highly respected young people. Guests from Monroeville and vicinity were Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Hollipeter, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Nill and son Chas., Mr. and Mrs. John Battenberg and children, Edith, Florence and Will; Miss Ella Null, Ralph Freidline and Will Nichols. Out of town guests were Dr. and Mrs. J. D. HER MARRIAGE PREVENTED.

Edith Shuder, of Columbia City, Attempted Suicide.

Columbia City, Ind., March 21.—Miss Edith Shuder, ager 17 years, the daughter of D. K. Shuder, took carbolic acid Thursday with suicidal intent. She only succeeded in getting about a teaspoonful of the deadly drug when discovered by members of the family, who at once called Dr. C. L. Souder, who, by administering the white of eggs and other methods, saved the girl's life.

Miss Shuder says he father is too strict with her and prevented her proposed marriage. This is the reason for her rash act. She declares she will make another attempt to end her life at the first opportunity. Her mother died about a year ago from tuberculosis. The father of the girl again married.

MUST NOT SELL ICE BY CHUNK

State Head of Weights and Measures Issues New Law's Decree.

KEEP EYE ON BUTTER

Indianapolis, March 21.—Another step in the fight to aid the housewife has been taken by the state inspector of weights and measures, H. E. Barnard. This time it is the iceman who is the target for the assault. No more may ice be doled out to the housewife or placed in refrigerators by the "chunk." The practice of dividing a block of ice into several different pieces and then selling it by the piece must cease, according to a letter just out by the state inspector to all the city and county inspectors in Indiana.

"The weights and measures law as amended at the last session of the legislature, among other things, provides that all commodities shall be sold by standard weight or measure, the letter says: "This provision makes illegal the former practice of selling by basket, box or lump, and is especially applicable to the regulation of the sale of ice. Under the provisions of the law ice can be sold legally only by weight or measure, and you are hereby instructed to require that all ice be weighed when delivered, and the price determined on the basis of that weight.

"Your attention is further called to the fact that the law as amended makes it a misdemeanor not only to sell or offer for sale less than the quantity represented, but in addition penalizes the servant or agent, who delivers less than the quantity he represents. In other words, the dealer in ice shall require payment not for the ice which leaves his plant, but the actual delivery made to the consumer.

The state inspector also has sent out a notice to all deputy inspectors, ordering them to pay special attention to the weight of all butter being sold in their particular districts. Breaking up the practice of butter dealers charging for the weight of wooden dishes or paper cartons containing the butter is desired. Recent reports to the state department showed sales of fourteen ounce to the pound butter, Mr. Barnard said.

TAKES WIFE ON A HUNT FOR SNAKES

Professor Sails for South America to Study Serpent Life

AND MAKE PICTURES

New York, March 21.—Solving the mysteries of serpent life is the pastime as well as the earnest endeavor of a New York naturalist, Prof. Allen S. Williams, who has gone to South America on a hunt for big ophidians and other reptiles. The sport of snake-hunting, according to this scientist, is most alluring.

Firearms are barred. The plan is to first snapshot the reptile while motionless, and then to picture it in motion with a "movies" camera, and finally to bring it home in a bag or a box.

Prof. Williams first will go to Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad, British West Indies. This, Great Britain's busiest port of call in the western hemisphere south of Canada, is a convenient entrance to a populous portion of the reptile kingdom. Trinidad is only fifty miles long from north to south by thirty miles wide, yet forty species of snakes live there. Apparently Trinidad originally was a little peninsula jutting into the Carribean sea from what is now South America's Venezuelan coast, but now separated by the Gulf of Paria, and the fauna and flora of Trinidad are almost the same as are characteristic of Venezuela and the three Guianas.

The serpents of Trinidad include the yellow anaconda, the true boa-constrictor, the fierce and quick tree boas, the rattlesnake, the fer-de-lance and the dread bush-master, the largest venomous snake of the western world.

Robinson Crusoe's Island.

After hunting Trinidad reptiles, Prof. Williams will visit Tuboga, the island selected by Defoe as the stage for his tale of Robinson Crusoe. Prof. Williams will then go by steamer across the Gulf of Paria, through the "Mouth of the Serpent" and through the Delta of the Orenoco, the second in size of South America's mighty rivers. He will travel up this stream to Ciudad Bolivar, and from there to one of the tributaries of the upper Orinoco. Here he will be joined by Arawack Indian guides and with them will penetrate the "high woods" or South American jungles, the most mysterious forest in the world and the richest storehouse for the general or special naturalist. Returning to New York a stop will be made at the Island of Martinique on a quest for the fer-de-lance.

Throughout his journey Prof. Williams' comrade will be his wife, an experienced camper, who over her pen name, "Elizabeth Remington," will describe the lives of the women and children of the Caribbean Islands, the Spanish main and southern "Forest of Arden."

A constricting serpent of twelve to twenty-four feet long in its fight to escape capture, will undoubtedly be a good actor before the crank cameras. Although not large—ten feet or less—the most venomous colubres, like the cribe, afford good sport for the snake hunter.

Movies of a Crocodile.

One of the most interesting motion pictures will be that depicting the capture of a big caiman, or crocodile, of the Orinoco. Prof. Williams and his Indians will lasso several specimens by snout and tail with forty riatas.

On their expedition Professor and Mrs. Williams will take with them a fully equipped, yet small, first-aid outfit, containing, besides the usual remedies, the most recently approved snake venom antidotes. But no alcohol will be taken along, as Prof. Williams believes that strychnine and other heart stimulants in the materia medica are more effective.

The professor is an ardent student of herpetology and ophidogy—respectively the science of reptiles in general and serpents in particular. For seventeen years he has been hunting North American snakes, and he maintains a collection of living serpents which exceeds 500 specimens.

PLUMP FOLKS AND THIN FOLKS

Samose Will Make People Fat—"Money Back If It Fails" Say Meyer Bros. Co.

The line of beauty is a curve. Women may be thin and graceful but not thin and beautiful. There is a vast number of pale, thin, scrawny people who are all brains and nerves, but without the strength and health that accompanies the standard weight. Good flesh and perfect health go together. A true flesh forming food like Samose is absolutely necessary to many people.

This remarkable discovery comes in tablet form and when taken after meals mingles with the food and helps it to assimmiate so that it makes rich blood and pleasing plumpness.

Meyer Bros. Co. have so much confidence in this remarkable flesh forming food and health restorer that they are willing and glad to allow any customer to deposit 50c with them and take home a box of Samose with the understanding that if it does not give a marked increase in good firm flesh the money will be returned without any questions.—Adv.

PRINCE TO BE STOCK BREEDER.

Plans Aimed to Raise Standard of British Stock.

London, March 21.—The prince of Wales is shortly to start a home farm in Cornwall for the breeding of shorthorns and heavy horses.

About 300 acres of land belonging to the duchy of Cornwall at Whiteford will be set apart for the purpose when the present tenant gives up occupation. Whiteford farm is just across the Tamar, three miles from Callington, the nearest town, and about seven miles from Tavistock.

Early in the nineteenth century there were some famous shorthorn herds in Cornwall, but, owing to interbreeding, due to geographical isolation, general stocks have deteriorated and famous animals are confined to a few enthusiastic breeders.

It is to remedy this state of things that the prince of Wales has decided on his present project. New stock will be purchased and utilized for the benefit of the whole duchy. The prince has already a farm for improving the breed of Dartmoor ponies.

WARLESS COLONEL PENSIONED.

Born After Rebellion Began, but Son of a Veteran.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 21.—Although the only fighting he has ever done was in political campaigns, "Col" John Rosenberger of Kittaning township, near here, has been granted a pension of $12 a month by the government. The "colonel" was born in 1862, and is only forty inches tall. The pension was granted him on the ground that he is the son of a deceased veteran and is unable to earn a living by manual labor.

GIRL SUFFRAGET TELLS HORRIBLE TORTURES OF FORCED FEEDING.

LILLIAN LENTON.

(By William G. Shepherd.)

London, England, March 19.—Do our American women realize what it means to be forcibly fed by the horrible method now being resorted to by English prison authorities in the cases of the rebelling suffragets of London.

Do they have even the slightest conception of the awfulness of the barbarous procedure—a procedure through which weak women are gladly passing here daily, just for the sake of "saving for the women of the race their rights?"

Well, here is th efirst actual word-of-mouth story of the methods and the effect of the new kind of brutal, forced feeding tried on the girl suffragets arrested in the late Kew Garden riots. I have just this minute had it from the lips of Lillian Lenton, released today from jail because she was starving herself to death.

"I refused to eat in Holloway prison, where I was held awaiting trial and so they tried forcibly to feed me," whispered Miss Lenton, her voice almost gone from weakness. "There were two doctors and seven wardresses. I struggled with the wardresses, but they overpowered me and tied me into a chair.

"I went on struggling the whole time after that. They pulled my head across the back of the chair, by my hair.

"Finally one doctor put a rubber tube into my nostril and tried to pour some soup into the tube. I managed to jerk the tube out of my nose before they poured anything down. They got the tube into my nose at last and it became very hard for me to breathe. My breathing was noisy and rattly. The doctor told me to breathe more quietly.

"I didn't want the other girls who had been arrested with me to hear me breathing that way, because it would frighten them, but I couldn't help gurgling and making a noise. I was breathing with the greatest difficulty and could not speak.

"They poured in food twice, but it came back through my throat at once and I coughed violently. The whole time the tube was in my nose I was coughing violently.

"A voice said something which I did not catch and a man's voice answered, 'Yes, go on.'

"Then something was poured into the tube and again it came straight back to my mouth. Then they took the tube out and untied me and I got up, but fell back against the wall.

The wardresses brought my bed into the cell, one mattress and a pillow spread on the floor, and helped me into it and then left me.

"I began to be in pain from the waist upward. The pain became intense and I rang the bell and a doctor came and examined my chest. He warned me not to sit up. He told the wardresses to bring blankets and a hot water bottle. Then the doctor went away and, when he came back to the cell, he told me that he was authorized to tell me that I should be released from prison as soon as possible, if I would promise to appear in police court for my trial, three days afterward. I made the promise, I will keep it, of course.

"They gave me brandy in beef tea and milk with brandy, for the doctor said I must take something to help me stand the trip from the prison. I wouldn't have taken it if they had not have been going to let me go. The doctor and a wardress carried me to a taxicab and came with me here to my friend's home, where I was put to bed and attended by my own physician immediately."

The anti-suffragist public of England is constantly criticizing the English government for "being easy" with the imprisoned suffragets, but the government has come to a place in the suffraget fight where they don't dare to let a suffraget die in prison of hunger and where, on the other hand, they are becoming afraid to cause the physical suffering that forcible feeding involves. About the only solution of the problem is to open the prison gates and set the women free, which is a solution which has been followed in nearly every suffragist case within the past six months.

CHILD'S FOOD IS PROBLEM.

Fifty Cents Weekly Is Not Regarded Sufficient to Pay.

London, March 21.—How much it should cost to satisfy the appetite of a healthy child of 6 years is a question which is engaging the attention of the Camberwell guardians. It appears that the master of the Gordon Road workhouse, Peckham, who has a little daughter, instead of buying her food outside, has been allowed to take it from the general store on payment of 50 cents weekly. The local ratepayers' association has now written suggesting that the charges should be increased to a sum "more in accordance with the appetite of a growing child." When the letter was read to the guardians it was suggested that it is impossible to feed a hungry child of 6 years on 50 cents per week, but Mrs. Mawby thought that amount would be the wholesale cost of the child's food and suggested that the men's knowledge of domestic matters was deficient.

"I don't know how you fellows feel about it, but I'm going to get my Easter suit at Pixley's. For the last twenty-five years, since I was a boy, my clothes have come from this store, and I've the first kick to make yet.

"First, this store always makes good on its promises.

"Second, the quality is there.

"Third, the style is correct, because it is the "Correct Dress brand of clothing.

"Last, but not least, the PRICE is right, ALWAYS."

Now, after such an argument, you know these fellows are going to Pixley's, too.

COMING OUT ALL RIGHT, SHE SAYS

here she was dressed in the black suit she wore at her husband's funeral. A mourning veil partially hid her face. She had been weeping, but generally maintained the composure that has characterized her bearing from the first.

Soon after his retirement from the navy in 1905, Rear Admiral Eaton met Mrs. Jennie May Ainsworth, the daughter of George Harrison, of Alexandria, Va. Mrs. Ainsworth later divorced her husband, D. H. Ainsworth, an employe of the senate at Washington, and she and the admiral were married in 1907.

Helped Woman Before Marriage.

Their courtship was described by the admiral in a statement which he made during a brief estrangement from his wife four years ago. He said:

"I met Mrs. Ainsworth in Chicago, and I thought she was a widow. At that time, however, she was not actually divorced from her husband. It was not until just before my marriage that I learned she had a husband. Then she told me that her husband was alive and that she had just obtained a divorce from him on the grounds of drunkenness and desertion.

"During the time I paid attention to her, knowing her straitened circumstances and thinking her husband was dead, I helped toward the support of herself and children, giving her money, though at the time I did not know for what purpose she was using it. Later, after the marriage, I learned inadvertently that I had been paying for the divorce proceedings which she had instituted against her husband.

Kept Promise to Marry.

"I married her because I had said I would and was too much of a gentleman to withdraw my promise. She has always been a good wife.

"I know that money was given to Ainsworth, but never with my consent except once; then I paid his fare to Cleveland to get rid of him."

After their marriage the Eatons went to Brookline. Soon afterwards the rear admiral met with financial reverses and in his last days led an unpretentious life on a poultry farm in Norwell.

Disappointed that a child had not been born to them, the rear admiral, about ten years after his second marriage, secretly adopted an infant which he proclaimed as his own. The deception was successful for a time, but the baby died when a few months old.

Mrs. Eaton said the infant had been poisoned and an examination of the stomach was made. No poison was found, but as a result of her charge Mrs. Eaton was estranged from her husband for a brief period. Then they were reconciled and again lived together.

MUCH SMALLPOX BUT NOT A DEATH

Disease Raged in Many Indiana Counties in February.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS

Indianapolis, March 21.—Smallpox was more than commonly prevalent in Indiana during February, although not a single death from the disease was reported to the state board of health. Many counties had epidemics.

The births during the month far outnumbered the deaths, the birthrate being almost six points higher than the death rate. Pneumonia caused 389 deaths.

Figures compiled by the state board of health show 4,342 births during the month, at a rate for 1,000 population of 20.5. The death returns show a total of 3,008, with a rate of 14.1. In January the total deaths reached 3,237, and in February of last year they totaled 2,985. Pulmonary tuberculosis was responsible for 280 deaths last month and other forms of tuberculosis cost forty-seven lives.

The number of deaths from poliomyelitis was cut down last month to three, one at Frankfort and two in Laporte county. There was one death from hydrophobia in Marion county, a four-year-old boy being the victim.

Perry county led all the other counties of the state with a birth rate of 34.3. Ohio county had the smallest birth rate, 6. The total number of births in January and February of this year was 9,178, while the total number of deaths during the same period was 6,245. Births of white males last month numbered 2,222, births of white girls totaling 2,028. Births of colored boys numbered forty-four and of colored girls forty-eight. The southern counties of the state had the highest rate, with 21.4. The rate in the central counties was 20 and in the northern counties was 20.4.

The cities of the state outstripped the country in the death totals, showing a death rate of 16.3, as contrasted with a rate of 12.5 in the country districts. One thousand and eighty-eight persons more than sixty-five years old died in the month, while 469 deaths were those of babes less than one year old.

Typhoid fever caused 25 deaths; diphtheria and croup, 48; scarlet fever, 24; measles, 52; whooping cough, 48; diarrhoea, 34; influenza, 93; cancer, 168, and external causes, 169. The southern counties showed a total of 1,049 deaths at a rate of 14.3. The central counties had a rate of 14, and the southern counties had the same rate.

IN TRIBUTE TO DEAD BRETHREN

Knights Rose Croix in Observance of Maundy Thursday.

IT WAS IMPRESSIVE

The membership of Emanuel chapter, Knights Rose Croix, with Blue Lodge Masons as their guests, impressively observed Maundy Thursday at the Scottish Rite cathedral last evening in a service that paid tribute to the knights claimed by death during the past year. It is the first time in the history of local Scottish Rite Masonry that the service has been held.

Rev. A. J. Folsom, most wise master of the chapter, was in charge of the program, which included an elaborate musical service by the cathedral choir with George Geake and D. Burns Douglas as soloists, in addition to the ritualistic ceremonies. Rev. Dr. J. H. Mackenzie, of Howe military school, delivered the oration of the occasion, preceding the extinguishing of the lights. The ceremony of relighting the lights will occu Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

SUFFRAGE BILL IS PASSED.

Wisconsin to Have Referendum Vote on Question Next Year.

Madison, Wis., March 21.—The senate today passed the woman's suffrage bill submitting the question to a referendum vote of the people in 1914, by a vote of 17 to 15, although the referendum in 1912 denied women the ballot. There was no discussion on the bill. Senator Randolph moved that all rules be suspended and the bill be placed on its passage. He voted against the bill, but said that they might as well dispose of the matter at this time.

CAN'T FIND WHO SOLD KERCHIEFS

Get No Further Clue to the Identity of Brutal Burglar.

WAS NOT MEISNER

Although Detective Sergeant William F. Puppert has visited most of the stores in the city in which handkerchiefs are sold he has not been able to find any of the pattern used in the robbery and assault of Mrs. Al Heis, on West Main street and nothing has developed to furnish a new clue.

The officers are still working on the case and still hope by means of the handkerchiefs to get some sort of a line on the brute, but up to late this afternoon they were still at sea.

Herbert Meisner resumed his work today after his release from custody. He was able to show a clean bill and in addition Mrs. Heis stated most positively that it was not he who assaulted and robbed her.

SUMMARY OF WEATHER CONDITIONS

During the night a very severe storm of limited extent but of great severity developed over this section of the country. Its center this morning at 7 a. m. apparently being over northern Indiana, South Bend reporting the abnormally low barometer reading of 29.02 inches. The storm is apparently moving rapidly northeastward, and is being followed by snow and much colder weather, snow being reported at Chicago at 7 a. m. The high winds have interrupted telegraphic service, and but few reports have been received this morning. From meager reports it is probable that very cold weather covers the northwest, Sheridan, Wyo., reporting a temperature of 18 below zero.

The storm will move northeastward, and in this section snow and much colder weather is probable for tonight, with the lowest temperature about 15 degrees. Saturday will be continued cold and probably fair; the winds will shift to the west and northwest, and will be diminishing tonight. At Fort Wayne, sixty miles per hour was recorded this morning at about 8 a. m.

CALL RICH WOMEN IN VICE INQUIRY

Leaders of Washington Society Asked to Give Their Views.

DO GIRLS APE WAYS?

Washington, March 21.—Do working girls go wrong from indulgence in extravagances resulting from imitating the fashions and customs of the rich?

This is a question which will be propounded by the O'Hara vice committee to the witnesses at the public hearing it will hold in the Willard hotel on Saturday following the call on President Wilson. It is a question that will be put particularly to eleven wealthy society women of Washington if they respond to the invitations received yesterday from the Illinois committee.

The eleven women are Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mrs. Preston Gibson, Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. Henning Jennings, Miss Katherine Jennings, Mrs. Christian Hemmick, Mme. Havenith, wife of the Belgian minister; Mme. Riano, wife of the Spanish minister; Mrs. Hunt Slafer, Mrs. Huntington Wilson and Mrs. Murray Crane.

Emulate Richly Gowned Women?

The statement that girls living in Washington are led into extravagance by the example set by the rich women of the capital was made recently at a meeting of members of organizations interested in the study of social economics. It was asserted the sight of expensively garbed women driving about the capital induces many a girl to spend all her money in a vain endeavor to acquire similar hats and gowns.

Girls hear of society women smoking cigarettes and drinking cocktails at Washington dinners, and straightway begin smoking cigarettes and drinking cocktails, according to this account of conditions. For many girls this is said to be the introduction to a life of immorality.

Some of the members of the organizations participating in the meeting at which these statements were made have been invited to testify before the committee. The society women who were invited yesterday will be asked whether they believe the example of Washington society has this influence on working girls.

Investigate Cities' Vice "Circuit."

Stanley Finch, federal prosecutor of violations of the Mann act, will be asked about the alleged existence of a "white slave circuit" something like a theatrical circuit. The committee has received information that such a "circuit" is operated from a New York headquarters. The girls, it is said, are sent from New York to Boston resorts, thence to Buffalo, Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans. On reaching New Orleans the girls are returned to New York by boat and started over the circuit again.

OBJECTS TO KISSING GAMES.

Yonkers Reformer Thinks They're Just Perfectly Horrid.

New York, March 21. The campaign in Yonkers that had its beginning in the passage of a curfew law and developed a movement to regulate dance halls and prohibit the bunny hug, turkey trot and other modern dances now threatens to result in the elimination of kissing games at house parties. Miss Margaret S. Dodge, a public stenographer, who lives in Bryn Mawr Park, has publicly demanded that an end be put to the practice of kissing at parties.

MUST SUPPORT WIFE AND CHILD.

Court Orders William Degitz to Pay $5 a Week for Their Keep.

William Degitz was dismissed of a charge of wife desertion in the city court this morning on condition that he pay $5 a week for the support of his wife and one small child. Testimony brought out the fact that the two cannot get along together, and have been living apart since March 1, this year.

Angelo Bananna, aged 14, and Frank Wyanno, aged 15, charged with petit larceny, were certified to the juvenile court. The boys yesterday broke into a vacant house on Fairfield avenue, just south of the Wabash railroad, and stole some plumbing, which they sold. The purchaser has not yet been found, but may be prosecuted for buying stolen property.

Clarence Boley was fined $1 and costs for public intoxication and Frank Clark, another drunk, also drew a similar fine. Louis Burger, charged with drunkenness, had his case continued until tomorrow morning.
